HOUSE FIGHTS FOR STRONGER JOB MEASURE

SENATE CHANGES IN EMPLOYMENT BILL UNACCEPTABLE

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—A bloc of 115 house members went to bat today for a strongly-worded "full employment" bill.

Their leaders declared "they could not accept" the measure passed yesterday by the senate.

They said they had support of President Truman for a fight to eliminate broad senate revisions of the legislation.

This report came from Rep. Outland (D-Calif) chairman of the group of 115 and Rep. Patman (D-Tex), author of the house bill they are backing. The two conferred earlier this week with Mr. Truman.

Outland told a reporter that senate revisions of the measure "virtually sabotaged the whole thing." He added:

"We'll make a fight for the original language and we think the people will go with us."

Provisions Too Weak

Both Patman and Outland said the senate-passed bill "merely says everyone is entitled to an opportunity to try to find a job."

They want the legislation to provide specifically that all Americans able to work are "entitled to a job."

The 115 co-sponsors of the Patman measure outlined their basic desires in a statement as follows:

"1. We are wholeheartedly committed to the principle that every American who is able to work and desires work has the right to useful, remunerative, regular and full-time employment.

"2. We are committed without qualification to the principle that the federal government has the responsibility of continuing full employment opportunity.

"3. We are committed to the principle that the government must make full use of all its powers and functions relating to employment and production and must specifically pledge its financial resources to make good on the assurance of continuing full employment opportunity.

"4. We believe the president should submit to congress every year a national production and employment budget. * * * and the congress * * * must take the responsibility for considering and acting up the president's program as a whole."

Extra Hour In Bed Not For Chicagoans

Chicago, Sept. 29 (AP) — That extra hour of sleep the nation will gain when clocks are set back an hour tomorrow isn't for Chicagoans.

This city will stay on war time—officially daylight saving time—four more weeks—until Oct. 28.

The nation formally returns to standard time at 2 a. m. tomorrow but a city ordnance adopted several years ago provides that clocks in Chicago be turned one hour ahead of standard time during the late spring, summer and early Autumn months.

The North Shore Electric Lines will run trains as far north as Milwaukee, Wis., on Chicago time.

Railroads, bus lines and air lines out of Chicago will operate on central standard time, one hour slower than Chicago.

Weather

(Reported by U. S. Weather Bureau)

LOWER MICHIGAN: Fair and colder with heavy frost and freezing temperatures in north and central and light frost with near freezing temperatures in extreme south. Sunday fair and not so cool.

UPPER MICHIGAN: Fair and cold with frost and freezing temperatures. Sunday fair and warmer.

Globe Girdling Plane Off On Fourth Leg Of 23,000-Mile Journey

BY PAUL MILLER

Aboard The Globester, Casablanca, Sunday, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Globester took off for Tripoli at 12:30 a. m., local time today (7:30 p. m., E. W. T. Saturday) starting the fourth leg of its round-the-world flight.

The plane arrived at Casablanca at 9:52 p. m. after a 3,-939 mile Atlantic crossing, and was two hours behind schedule because of fog and stormy weather over Santa Maria in the Azores.

An hour and a half was made up, however, by cutting the scheduled stop here from four to two and a half hours. The next stop at Tripoli, 1,394 miles away, will be but a one-hour pause.

A reception by hundreds of persons at the air base here, headed by Col. Rollin Anthis of El Reno, Okla., featured the Casablanca stop.

The Globester left Washington Friday at 5 p. m., (E.W.T.), stopped at Bermuda last night and arrived at Santa Maria today at 20:32 a. m. (E.W.T.) the schedule calls for it to be back in Washington next Tuesday at midnight.

At Santa Maria Maj. Rodney S. Lamont, of Rock Island, Ill., acting commanding officer of the Santa Maria flying field, was host at a luncheon to the world-girdlers.

Clearing skies developed as the Globester got up to 9,000 feet and leveled off after leaving Santa Maria at approximately 200 miles per hour for the five and one-half hour run to North Africa. Passengers discarded the "Mae West" life belts they will not need again until they reach the Pacific.

GRAIN AERATED AT IDLE PLANT

State Police Protection Given As Workers Avert Post Explosion

Battle Creek, Sept. 29 (AP) — Workers inside the strikebound Post Products plant here, under protection of state police, had by S turday night completed aerating the stored grain which state officials had feared would explode, a company spokesman said tonight.

Grain in other bins will be "turned" as soon as possible, he said.

Although about 350 pickets looked on, entry of non-union workers into the plant Saturday under heavy state police guard was without incident. A contingent of 80 state troopers ordered to Battle Creek by Gov. Kelly surrounded the plant during the day.

State Police are also expected to escort executives, office and other non union workers into the plant Monday under an injunction obtained by the company restraining the union from interfering.

Officials of the striking United Cereal, Bakery & Food Workers Union (CIO) had indicated that no opposition would be offered if the non-union maintenance crew was escorted. The eviction of four workers Thursday night after they had entered the plant was termed "unauthorized" by Frank Lusk, union president.

The maintenance men aerated the grain for the first time since the strike began two weeks ago. Arnold Renner, state fire marshal, said the heat generated by 25,-000 bushels of the grain had risen above the danger point, and had ordered the company to abate the hazard.

NAVY REVAMPS HIGH COMMAND

Retirement Of Halsey May Be Followed By Other Changes

BY POPE HALEY

Washington, Sept. 29. (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey's request for retirement may mark the first of several changes in the navy's high command.

Halsey's statement that he feels it is time to "let the young fellows take over" is in accord with expressed naval policy.

Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld in taking office as chief of the bureau of personnel, recently set forth as basic policy the "replacing of the older flag officers at sea and ashore, whose splendid wartime performance entitled them to a rest, with younger officers who have had fleet and combat experience."

Halsey is 13 months shy of the statutory peacetime retirement age of 64, but he has five years to spare under a rule permitting retirement on request after 40 years' naval service. He entered the Naval Academy in 1900.

Two of the navy's highest-ranking officers, Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations; and Admiral Frederick J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, are past 64. King normally would have retired December 1, 1942, and Horne March 1, 1944.

Halsey's retirement will remove him as one of the possible successors to King. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, who will not reach retirement age until March 1, 1949, is another prominently mentioned.

Martha Raye Skips Out On Divorce Suit In Detroit Court

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP)—Circuit Judge Chester P. O'Hara signed today an order to show cause, returnable October 12, why Movie Actress Martha Raye should not be cited for contempt of court.

Miss Raye, cited for failing to appear as a witness in a divorce case, was reported to have left Detroit.

Principles in the divorce case are Herman Prujansky, operator of a bar, and Cynthia Prujansky. The husband charged his wife had an ungovernable temper. Mrs. Prujansky in turn accused him of associating with other women.

Miss Raye was served with a subpoena last Thursday while she was appearing at a night club here.

TAX SLASHING BILL POLISHED UP BY VINSON

PLANS FOR REVENUE CUT TO BE FIRST IN 16 YEARS

BY FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson polished off today the administration's plan for the first peace-time tax-cutting bill.

Monday he will take it to Capitol Hill, where some tax leaders expect him to propose only moderate trimming on this basis:

1. Repeal in 1946 of the 3 per cent "normal" tax on individuals, or an adjustment of exemptions under this tax so as to relieve the burden on families with small income. Outright repeal of the tax successor to the old "victory" levy, would remove around 10,-000,000 persons from the tax rolls completely. It would reduce over-all tax liabilities by about $2,000,000,000.

2. Elimination of the 95 per cent excess profits tax on corporations, imposed in wartime. This would lighten corporation burdens by about $2,000,000,000.

3. A definite cutoff date for high wartime excises, which doubled federal retail levies on such things as fur coats, jewelry and cosmetics. Vinson regards sales and high excises as not only unfair to low income groups, but also as a restriction of markets for business.

No Drastic Reductions

The tall, gray Kentuckian will be the first treasury secretary in 16 years to carry to Congress plans for reducing—not boosting—taxes.

Vinson is expected to call for moderation in tax cutting at this time. In this position, he will get support from Ways and Means Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) who has cautioned the nation not to expect "drastic tax reductions."

A search of Vinson's recent statements disclosed his enunciation of these principles as a guide for construction of a national tax program:

1. Taxes should be levied in such a way that they "have the least harmful effect on the expansion of business investment and the creation of jobs because productive employment is the source of our standard of living, of all income, and of the revenue which the government collected from taxes."

2. Taxes should be levied in such a way that they have the least harmful effect on the maintenance of mass markets and mass purchasing power because that is the basis of business, labor, and agricultural prosperity.

3. Taxes must be fair among people.

4. Tax policy should be integrated with a fiscal policy designed to prevent inflation and deflation.

Vinson said in his July 1 statement that acceptance of such principles means "that the personal income tax must be the chief source of tax revenue and the base must be broad."

Operators To Stop Work For 4 Hours At Michigan Bell

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP)—Some 14,-000 Michigan Bell Telephone Company operators will stage a four-hour work stoppage sometime next week to attend protest meetings, Mrs. Francis Smith, president of the Michigan Telephone Workers Federation, said tonight.

Plans were underway, Mrs. Smith said, for meetings in 120 Michigan cities and communities.

At the meetings, operators will take action either for or against a notice of intent to strike, she stated. Similar meetings have been called throughout the country.

The proposed stoppages would disrupt for four hours all telephone service in the state, except for any emergency service which, company officials said, would be put into operation.

The meetings were scheduled between 2 and 6 p. m., but the day was not announced.

Greek Ship Catches Fire, 150 Missing

Cario, Sept. 29 (AP)—One hundred fifty persons were reported missing tonight after the 10,000-ton ship "Empire Patrol" caught fire off Port Said while repatriating Greek refugees from Abyssinia and East Africa.

Four hundred fifty-six passengers were reported to have been rescued by the British navy. Destroyers and air craft carriers were sent out after the navy picked up the ship's S. O. S.

Keep Hands Off Press, Gen. Mac Arthur Tells Japanese Government

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Sept. 29 (AP)—General MacArthur, stripping the mystery from Japan's throne, abolished today the powers the Imperial government had invoked a few hours earlier in suppressing publication of the emperor's pictures and interviews.

The Japanese home ministry had seized all copies of five Tokyo and Osaka newspapers and suspended the papers.

It's excuse was that the stories, in which the emperor had expressed to American correspondents his hopes for a more democratic Japan, were "too awesome and would have a bad effect on the Japanese people.

MacArthur's press headquarters, however, bluntly declared that the Japanese government actually suspended the papers "for publishing accounts of the emperor's call on MacArthur," a humble and unprecedented visit which many Japanese felt had caused their emperor to lose much face.

MacArthur's censor told the newspapers to reusme publication and to go ahead and distribute the "forbidden" editions, which prominently displayed the interviews alongside a picture of the emperor and the supreme Allied commander, and to continue publication.

The papers affected were Asahi, Mainichi and Yomiuri Kochi of Tokyo and Asahi and Mainichi of Osaka.

MacArthur's order was the strongest he had issued since the occupation began. It cut off the Japanese government from any control of newspapers, radios, the mails, telephones, telegraph lines and cables.

He also forbade retaliation against the Japanese press, directly or indirectly.

Press headquarters said the latest move completed a program designed to encourage freedom of the press and radio in Japan, and to rid the people of the Jingoistic propaganda on which they have been fed since before the war.

DETROIT STRIKE REMAINS TIGHT

No Assurance Given That Workers Will Heed Plea Of UAW Head

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP)—The troubled labor situation that has kept approximately 80,000 persons idle in the Detroit area for more than a fortnight remained deadlocked tonight.

Top United Automobile Workers (CIO) officials, who sought a back-to-work vote and were greeted with jeers and cat-calls at a mass meeting of Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. strikers Friday night, did not indicate what their next move would be in that key challenge to union authority.

R. J. Thomas, International UAW-CIO president, ordered the strikers back to work, but union spokesmen admitted that they had no assurance that any of the 4,500 workers who left their jobs more than five weeks ago would heed the order.

The Kelsey-Hayes strike, precipitated by the refusal of the management to reinstate three minor union officials dismissed for participating in the ejection of a foreman, was a principal factor in the laying off of 50,000 Ford Motor Co. production workers. The Kelsey-Hayes company supplied wheels and brake drums to the Ford company.

The Kelsey-Hayes strike has been regarded by industry and labor observers generally as the most serious of current strikes in the nation's automotive capital. Many believed its settlement would be followed by an end to numerous other smaller strikes in the area and the recalling of the laid-off workers.

Roundup Of Diehard Nazis In Weisbaden Brings 41 Arrests

Weisbaden, Sept. 29 (AP)— American troops have arrested 41 prominent German men and women in one of the biggest raids in the American zone since the Allied occupation began, it was disclosed tonight.

A spokesman for Col. James R. Newman, of Floral Park, N. Y., commander of the Wiesbaden military government, said those arrested included leaders of a ring which used both Freemasons and Catholics to cloak efforts to keep Naziism alive.

Several former officials of the Nazis' Wiesbaden district military government were caught in the raids, carried out Friday in a cafe two blocks from military police headquarters, and seven blocks from the AMG district headquarters.

At least two and one-half tons of food—some of it American beef, ham and military rations—were found in the cafe along with handbills bearing the Nazi swastika, the military spokesman said.

Several Germans attempted to escape through windows but were caught by guards stationed outside. One of the leaders was identified by the spokesman as a Dr. Margaen, one of Germany's most prominent dental technicians.

The group was led by men and women between the ages of 35 and 70, the spokesman said, explaining that they were the "brains" behind what appeared to be a ring to keep alive the Nazi philosophy.

"Typical of the subtleness of the propaganda we seized," he said, "was one reading 'the German people must cooperate with each other. Foreigners can never rebuild Germany."

CLEANUP DEMANDED

Washington, Sept. 29. (AP)—President Truman, informed that many Jewish refugees in Germany and Austria are being treated "as the Nazis treated them except that we do not exterminate them," has ordered General Eisenhower to "clean up the conditions" and report to him as soon as possible.

THREE CONVICTS TRACED TO OHIO

Fugitives From Jackson Believed Involved In Abduction, Car Theft

Defiance, O., Sept. 29 (AP) — Three men armed with an army trench knife, suspected fugitives from Southern Michigan prison at Jackson, early today ordered a girl from a parked car, abducted her two male companions and released them unharmed 15 miles away after taking $90 and their automobile.

Patrolman W. A. Center identified the principals as Miss Pauline Shock, in front of whose home the car was parked, Clarence L. Glick of Highland Park, Mich., and Sgt. Robert Hull of Defiance.

The patrolman said the conversation of the abductors, as recounted by Glick and Hull, led him to believe that they were three of the four men who escaped over the Jackson prison wall last night amid shots from guards.

Patrolman Center said a Michigan-license Ford coupe was found abandoned near the Shock home.

The victims said all three abductors were between 23 and 26 years of age, the patrolman reported. Two of them, one dark and the other blond, wore filling station attendant uniforms. Glick and Hull were unable to furnish patrolmen with a description of the third man.

Michigan prison officials listed the escapees as John Ronald Kuchulan, 29, August Bernard Doak, 28,and Phillip Gill, 28, all serving 10 to 20 years for armed robery, and Merwin L. Young, 23, serving four to five years for auto theft.

Britain May Have To Share Big U. S. Loan With Empire

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Britain may have to share with the empire any multi-billion dollar loan it gets from the United States, it was learned today.

A plan now being considered by some American financial experts would turn over part of any loan to countries like India, Egypt and Australia and other members of the sterling bloc who are owed money by Britain.

The total amount involved in such a scheme probably would be about $5,000,000,000, it was said.

Farm Animals Get Spoiled Candy Bars

Detroit, Sept. 29. (AP)—Eighty-eight cases of candy bars found by government inspectors to be unfit for human consumption have been ordered sent to the federal correctional institution at Milan to be fed to farm animals.

Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien ordered U. S. Marshal John J. Barc to deliver the cases — each containing 100 bars — to the prison farm.

STRANDED NAZIS CAUSE TROUBLE

Women Who Fraternize With Yanks Warned Of Reprisals

BY RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

Munich, Sept. 29 (AP)—Placards threatening reprisals against German women who fraternize with Americans are among the latest evidence of underground activity in Bavaria.

Incidents have been sporadic, but some are reported to have been perpetrated by remnants of S S (Elite Guard) units stranded in the Alps between Munich and Garmisch.

Written in doggerell, placards were found on the Max Weber platz charging German girls were "selling themselves for cigarettes, sugar and chocolate."

One poster asid women ignored mained former German soldiers "because they have no coffee and butter."

"But a stranger has cigarettes and sugar and if he produces chocolate then the color of his skin can be as it may," the German doggerel continued. "It took them five years to conquer the soldiers, but a German woman can be had for chocolates and throws herself away, tramples on honor."

The placard then threatened: "Oh God, if it depends on us, you will pay for it."

A military government source said some "decapitation wires" had been strung across roads near Nuernberg and that Third Army communication wires were cut at other points in the occupation zone. There also have been occasional reports of shots fired at American troops.

Investigators estimated that not less than a battalion of mountain infantry would be needed to flush the S S holdouts from their lairs in a long campaign and held that the better strategy was to let cold and hunger drive them to eventual surrender.

Over 3,000 Acres Of Redwoods Burn In California Fire

San Francisco, Sept. 29 (AP)—Savage flames which roared through more than 10,000 acres of brush and redwoods on the sides of Mt. Tamalpais in the past three days were beaten down late today within one-quarter mile of the hamlet of Lagunitas.

Fire Chief Lloyd De La Montanya of Marin county said that evacuation of the town of 300 still was imminent if the rampaging fire jumped over a fire break protecting it.

Hundreds of fire fighters confined the blaze to the crest of a hill above Lagunitas.

More than 3,000 acres of redwoods have been destroyed, the spokesman said.

Battleship Indiana Back From Pacific, Has 879 Passengers

San Francisco, Sept. 29 (AP)—Battleship Indiana, first large ship of the Third Fleet to arrive on the Pacific coast, steamed through the Golden gate at 7:45 A. M. (Pacific War Time) today with 879 navy and marine passengers aboard.

The destroyer Mansfield and the Robert G. Cousins are due today, each with a small group of returnees.

Ships scheduled to arrive tomorrow include: the Carrier Saratoga from Pearl Harbor, the carrier Hornet, battleship Maryland.

UNION READY TO NEGOTIATE PAY INCREASE

GASOLINE SHORTAGE HITS PRODUCTION AT DETROIT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, Sept. 29. (AP)—President Truman was reported today ready to join Lewis B. Schwellenbach—deep in his first great test as labor secretary—in trying to settle the oil company-union wage dispute.

This news broke just as O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers Union, said his group would be willing to settle for less than the flat 30 per cent wage boost which the union has been demanding. He was negotiating with individual companies.

Schwellenbach himself begged representatives of the companies and the union—whom he called into special conference—to reach an agreement.

First Break Reported

The union—which already has 35,000 men on strike—has voted to send all of its 250,000 members on strike if the negotiations fail.

The president, it was reported in the conference room by a delegate, is considering adding his weight to Schwellenbach's by inviting company and union men to the White House to listen to a presidential plea for settlement.

ONE CALLED OFF

Whiting, Ind., Sept. 29. (AP)—The Oil Workers International Union (CIO) tonight called off the strike at the Standard Oil company refinery in Whiting, union officials announced.

Possibility of presidential intervention to help reach an accord appeared stronger when the first day's conversations ended tonight with both sides reporting no progress.

The union claimed a first break in the companies' solid front against the flat 30 per cent increase demand. The workers reported signing a contract with a good-size independent for a 30 per cent boost.

The union said this company—the Wilshire Oil company, Los Angeles—had agreed to pay 35 cents more an hour to hourly employes and $50 more a month to the monthly-paid employes.

Lewis Rocks Boat

Meanwhile John L. Lewis—who has threatened "action" by his 450,000 United Mine Workers in a dispute with mine owners over mine foremen—continued to rock the labor boat.

Lewis yesterday summoned the mine owners to a conference here with him about the foremen. Failure of the owners to comply Lewis warned, would leave his miners free to take independent "action."

The mine owners promptly rejected the "invitation" — which Lewis called his conference request — until 35,000 presently striking in 70 shut-down mines return to work.

Rebuffed, Lewis sent a second invitation today.

The foremen want to be recognized by the companies as part of Lewis' union. The companies contend the foremen are part of management and that if they become part of Lewis' organization he'd be in management of the mines.

The nationwide labor disputes picture had a brightening tone yesterday although there was still trouble aplenty.

UNION READY TO NEGOTIATE PAY INCREASE

than any other stoppage in the country, 1,500,000 in New York City, was ended by compliance of both sides with Governor Thomas E. Dewey's request for arbitration. The strikers' AFL union ordered them back to work immediately.

Ending of this and several smaller disputes dropped the national total of those away from work in labor disputes to approximately 397,000, from a postwar high of more than 420,000.

Another 38,000 were idle in a 20-day strike of Westinghouse Electric Corp. "White collar" workers at Pittsburgh, Penn., and in five other eastern states may return to work next week on recommendation of their union officials who said the company had agreed, if they do so, to resume negotiations within 24 hours on wages, hours and working conditions.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach already intervened personally in the oil strike, telling the conferees in the capital that the government was "begging and pleading" with them to reach a settlement.

But in the Chicago area the oil strike was intensified when CIO pickets, massing humanity and automobiles at plant entrances, forced a gradual shutdown of the big Standard Oil company refinery at Whiting, Ind. This was the last refinery operating in that area and had been producing about 2,500,000 gallons of gasoline a day.

The Standard Oil Employes association, independent union, claiming to represent 4,500 of 5,100 production employes at Whiting, announced its members, although not joining the strike, had been directed not to try to break the CIO picket line.

Whiting's Mayor James McNamara said he and the Lake county sheriff had asked Governor Gates of Indiana for aid in keeping law and order. State guard troops could be called out only by order of the governor, McNamara said but added about 40 members of company A of Indiana's First state guard regiment were standing by in Whiting in case of a call.

In Washington John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, renewed his proposal to soft coal operators to meet with them on a dispute over recognition of a foremen's union, an offer the operators rejected Friday. The dispute has idled 36,000 in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

AUTOS LEFT IDLE

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP)—A two-pronged effect on production in the nation's automotive capital was feared at the week-end as the strike of 7,000 oil workers in the area appeared no nearer solution.

Perhaps most threatening was the shortage of gasoline, on which many workers, particularly in outlying sections of the city, are dependent for getting to work.

Also important to continued operations in some plants, however, is fuel oil, which has become increasingly scarce since the strike began.

Many drivers foreseeing the gasoline shortage before the strike became so widespread filled their tanks and were able to keep their cars running most or all of the past week.

But beginning about the middle of the week a considerable share of the traffic shifted to the public transportation system, jamming into street cars and buses while leaving their cars idle.

What another week without gasoline for any but the most essential drivers and with the fuel oil situation growing worse daily would mean to production remains problematical.

The Ford Motor Co. has announced lowering of the temperature in its furnaces to the minimum of 1,400 degree, below which it said the linings would be ruined. A smaller foundry has closed because of a lack of fuel oil.

By Saturday the strike had shown its effects on other aspects of life besides pleasure driving and industrial production. A school in Redford township was closed after teachers reported they had no means of getting to work, and other schools were reported facing similar situations.

PACKERS PLAY CHICAGO BEARS

Hutson Still Insists He Will Not Be In Bay Lineup

Chicago, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers launch their National Football League title defense against their bitter rivals of long-standing, the Chicago Bears, before an expected record crowd of 25,000 at Green Bay tomorrow.

The league race proper does not start until a week from Sunday, but the 53rd meeting of the ancient foes will be watched closely by loop rivals who long have been buffeted by both Western Division juggernauts.

Another league contest tomorrow sends the once-tested Chicago Cardinals against the formidable Rams at Cleveland. The Cardinals opened a week ago, bowing to the Detroit Lions, 10-0.

The Packers and Bears each dropped two out of three non-championship games to league rivals, but both apparently were playing under wraps. But tomorrow's contest is one game they will play for keeps.

For 26 years, every Packer-Bear tangle has come up as the hardest fought and often the roughest game on the National League schedule. The Bears expect to be bolstered considerably at the last minute by the return from marine service of Halfback Hugh Gallarneau. The veteran halfback wired Bear officials from a west coast base he would join the club at Green Bay.

Unless he changes his mind after the whistle blows, aging Don Hutson may miss a Packer debut for the first time in a decade. The brilliant pass-snatcher insists his retirement is permanent this season. He has tried to quit for three years.

Young Republicans Take In 8 States

Chicago, Sept. 29 (AP)—The midwest council of Young Republicans, meeting at an organizational session here today, enlarged its group to include eight states.

Delegates from Indiana, Wisconsin, Colorado and Nebraska were admitted today. Other states represented on the council are Michigan, Minnesota, South Dakota and Iowa.

Average teaching life of the individual is six years, according to the National Education Association.

Allied Commission To Guide Surrender Policies In Pacific

BY JOHN A. PARRIS

London, Sept. 29 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes tonight announced the formation of an Allied commission in the Pacific to formulate policies for carrying out Japanese surrender terms. The commission, agreed to by Great Britain, Russia and China, will meet in Washington "in the near future."

Byrnes' announcement came at the time that American representatives were disclosed to be attempting to break a deadlock in the five-power council of foreign ministers through a proposal for a conference of all active belligerents against the Axis to discuss drafts of peace treaties with Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In announcing the Pacific commission, Byrnes said he received from British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin the consent of the British government to the American proposal, made Aug. 22.

France, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the Netherlands will be invited to join the commission on Japan, Byrnes said. He reported Bevin, in agreeing to the proposal, had asked that India be invited to become a member.

Tech Professor Receives Praise

Houghton—President Grover C. Dillman of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology has received from Dr. Harold C. Urey, noted Nobel prize-winner, a letter of high praise for the work done on the atomic bomb project by Dr. Glenn H. Damon. Dr. Damon, associate professor of chemistry at MCMT, has been on leave since November 1943.

Prof. Damon joined the MCMT staff as instructor in 1927, became assistant professor in 1932, and received his present rank July 1, 1940.

He was a reserve officer in the Chemical Warfare Service from 1927 to 1938. His professional-organization memberships include the American Chemical Society, Phi Lamba Upsilon, and Sigma Xi. He has published numerous articles in leading chemical journals, and is senior author of a text on Qualitative Analysis, prepared in 1939 in collaboration with T. R. Maki of the Michigan Tech faculty.

WM. McDONALD DIES SUDDENLY

Retired Contractor Had Been Resident Here For 26 Years

William E. McDonald, 64, retired building contractor, died at ten o'clock on Saturday evening at his home, 513 South Thirteenth street. Death was due to heart trouble. He was ill only a few hours.

Mr. McDonald was born on January 23, 1881 at Onaway, Mich. He came to Escanaba about 26 years ago.

Surviving are his wife and the following step-children: Roger Moras, Escanaba; Mrs. Emil Berg, West Allis, Wis., Mrs. Roger Baker, Henry Moras, George Moras and Mrs. Patrick Foye of Escanaba. Two sisters, Mrs. Sam Graham and Mrs. Dave Bartley of Echo Bay, Canada, also survive.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home to be prepared for burial but funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Briefly Told

Former Principal Dies — News has been received of the death at Champaign, Ill., of Dr. Harry Gilbert Paul, 71, principal at Escanaba high school from 1897 to 1900. Dr. Paul was professor of English, emeritus, at the University of Illinois, and had spent 44 years on the faculty, coming from the University of Chicago in 1901.

Northwestern And Indiana Battle To 7 to 7 Deadlock

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 29 (AP)—Northwestern's untested Wildcats opened their Western Conference season today by surprisingly holding Indiana, conqueror of Michigan, to a 7-7 tie before 30,000 spectators.

The Wildcats, seizing advantage of a blocked punt in the first period, scored and then fought off Indiana's challenges until the last seven minutes. Then the Hoosiers opened up with a deadly passing attack that tied the score two minutes later after a 53-year drive in which but six plays were used—two running plays and four brillian aerials.

Lt. Pete Pihos, who starred for Indiana in 1943 and for the U. S. Infantry in France and Germany since, scored the tying touchdown on a nine-yard bullet pass he took from Ben Raimodi.

BEARS TAKE MONTREAL

Newark, N. J., Sept. 29 (AP)—Behind Johnny Moore's brilliant two-hit pitching, the Newark Bears carved a 6 to 0 victory over the Montreal Royals here tonight before a turnout of 10,420 to take a commanding lead of three games to none in the final playoff round which qualifies the best four of seven winner for a berth in the Junior World Series.

Annual Escanaba Report Reveals City's Progress

The annual report of Escanaba's city government for the fiscal year ending June 30 reveals the progress of recent years, and contains a statement by City Manager A. V. Aronson that "this coming year should be one of great activity and one in which much important work could be accomplished."

Copies of the 40-page mimeographed booklet are available at city hall.

The report gives facts and figures concerning the expenditures of the city tax money by the city departments and the four utilities —electric, gas, water and steam. The report is published in conformity with the provisions of the city charter. Comparative figures are given from the year 1936 and extend through the past fiscal year.

$35,000 For Industry

In a letter of transmittal the city manager wrote:

"It will be noted that with the exception of the contingent fund expenditures have been kept within or close to budget appropriations. A word of explanation may be in order in regard to the increase in the actual cash outlay of the contingent fund over the amount estimated. This money was spent for worthwhile causes. The council, with a forward-looking plan in mind, voted funds to assist in the establishment of new industries.

"Investment in property for industrial development amounted to $35,000. Included in the contingent fund also were expenditures for the much-needed water tank, amounting to $53,000, and $9,600 for the property reappraisal that was made.

"With the year now at an end it is hoped that such projects as the bathing beach, paving, sidewalks, buildings and others which the people desire can be continued."

Under the heading of book values of city utility properties the figures show a steady "healthy" growth in the electric utility from $353,450 nine years ago to $465,947 at present: gas department from $209,305 to $236,145; water department from $441,745 to $632,435. The large increase in water department property in the past year was chiefly for construction of an elevated storage tank.

The steam utility, established in 1937-38 now has a value of $143,985. The increase in property value of this utility in the past year was due chiefly to extension of steam mains.

The report shows the history of bonded indebtedness of the city in the past nine years—a steady decline as the debt was reduced from $326,660 to $80,000 at present. Following the future schedule of payment the city will be free of bonded debt by 1952.

Interestingly revealed is the source of the city's revenues, and the purposes for which the taxpayer's money was spent.

For the past fiscal year the city had revenues totaling $372,428. Of this total, the largest portion was from utility revenues, which accounted for 31.5 per cent, which was greater than the 29 per cent received in revenue from tax roll collections. Revenues from the state, including intangible tax, weight and gas tax, and liquor tax, accounted for 15.8 per cent of the total, and the remainder was delinquent tax collections, current surplus, and other miscellaneous revenues.

Expenditures balanced those of revenue, totaling $372,428. Thirty per cent went to the contingent fund, the next largest slice (nearly 18 per cent) for fire and police protection. Other expenditures by percentage were: Public works and engineering 13.78; general fund and city building 11.19; parks and forestry, recreation 9.24; health, welfare, sewage disposal, garbage 8.08; yacht harbor, airport, civic advancement, band, library 6.08; interest and sinking fund 3.41.

Salaries Have Increased

Another table shows the history of salary and cost of living trends in Escanaba. Average monthly salary of regular employes has increased from about $105 in 1936 to about $155 in 1945, keeping well above the cost of living index through the years.

The recreation department, which was established in 1937-38 at a cost of $11,170 for the first fiscal year, has increased to $17,433 for the past fiscal year. Fire department fund expenditures nine years ago were $24,388 compared with $36,222 the past fiscal year. Police department costs also have increased from $22,341 nine years ago to $30,658 the past fiscal year.

The parks and forestry department, first established in 1942-43, last year had expenditures totaling $7,477 for parks and $9,507 for forestry work.

Scarcity of other fuels is reflected in the increase in total gas utility revenue during the past year, which was at a new high with $66,624.18. Nine years ago it was $60,863.05.

Water department revenues dropped in 1943-44 because of reduced rates voted by the council following a more economical method of operating the water utility through the drilling of deep wells. Revenue in 1944-45 increased slightly to a total of $70,418.

The steam utility showed a net loss of $9,240 in operating results the past fiscal year, although the utility in general showed a healthy increase in volume of production and in the number of customers. Principal reason for the deficit was the increase in operating costs, which went above estimates by more than $10,000 during the past fiscal year. There was an increase in steam generation of approximately six and one-half million pounds, and the number of customers increased from 38 to 45.

County Finance Meeting Tuesday

The finance committee of the county board of supervisors will Tuesday evening hold its second meeting prior to the annual budget meeting of the county board of supervisors on Monday, Oct. 8.

Supt. Harold Gustafson of Ensign township is chairman of the finance committee, which will hold its meeting Tuesday night at the court house in Escanaba.

Because it has not been definitely determined what tax revenue the county will receive, the work of the finance committee in preparing a budget report for the county board has been doubly difficult. The county has appealed from a lower tax allocation, and there has also been an appeal on the county's equalized valuation.

The state commission is scheduled to conduct a hearing at the board meeting Oct. 8 on the equalization appeal, and following that a hearing on the appeal on tax allocation.

Until the decisions of the state tax commission are announced the budget work for the county can only be largely tentative. It is probable the county board will have a two-day session because of the appeal hearings.

Registered births for the year 1944 have been reported as approximately 2,800,000, a four to five per cent decrease from 1943, the peak birth year of the nation's history.

A Familiar Pattern

THERE was a time in the not too distant past when the United States government was content to remain silent regarding the internal affairs of other countries of the world. The war has changed all that. We have learned, at tremendous cost in blood, sacrifice and wealth, that the kind of government that other countries have directly affects the lives of Americans.

Because of that recognition of a shrinking world, Americans generally will welcome the Truman administration's official slap at the deplorable state of affairs in Argentina.

During the war years and even now at the start of the postwar era, Argentina has been, literally, the den of iniquity of the Western hemisphere. The Argentine government was the cesspool of Nazi activity during the war on the South American continent.

Despite all this, and in the interests of Pan American harmony, Argentina was seated at the San Francisco conference with the blessing of the United States government, over the protests of many nations who felt, deservedly, that Argentina had not earned the right to assist in the shaping of the peaceful world of the future.

The Argentina government today is following the same general line of the Nazis in Germany, the Fascists in Italy and the Shintoists in Japan. There is strict censorship of press and radio. Rebellious groups crying out for liberty are arrested. Criticism of the government's high handed methods is ruthlessly squelched.

In every instance of history where national governments have shackled news information agencies, it has been done to hide the government's nefarious activities. All too often, it has been done to promote a program of aggression.

If there is to be peace throughout the world, there must be a free press so that the voices of the multitude can be heard above the war mongers, who are always in a minority.

We do have a stake in the internal affairs of Argentina. All the influence of the American government must be brought to bear to bring about the true will of the people in that hapless nation.

Lest We Forget

WHENEVER we are inclined to be soft in our treatment of the Nazi war criminals we should stop to think about the horrors of the German prison and concentration camps.

Our own soldiers, returning to this country following their liberation from German prison camps, have told us stories concerning their lack of care while we were adhering strictly to the Geneva convention in the treatment of Nazi prisoners of war. We can believe them.

Our own military officials, newspaper correspondents and other investigators have given us authentic reports on the horrible conditions in the concentration camps, where thousands died of starvation, torture and murder. Testifying at the Belsen war crimes trial last week, Dr. Fritz Leo of Dresden told almost unbelievable stories of cannibalism among the half-starved victims of Nazi brutality. Evidence of the mass execution of men, women and children in gas chambers and the disposition of their bodies in huge crematoriums has been produced many times.

We must remember Pearl Harbor when we deal with the Japs, and not forget Belsen and other German horror camps when we mete out punishment to the Nazis.

Vidkun Quisling

THE holder of the Order of the British Empire, Vidkun Quisling, must die the death of a traitor for what he has done to his homeland of Norway.

A former secretary of the Norwegian embassy in Moscow, Quisling earned the above reward for looking after British interests in Russia in a time of stress. Later he was minister of defense in a Norwegian Farmers' government. Clever in many ways, he organized a Norwegian Nazi party, the National Union. He welcomed the Nazi battalions to Oslo in 1940, and helped the Germans to overrun the country. His excuse was that the war was a struggle against British world tyranny.

During the war it was Quisling's boast that neither King Haakon nor any member of his family would ever sit on Norway's throne again. But he was an unlucky prophet as well as a treasonable Norwegian. Haakon is back on his throne and Quisling awaits the death penalty. More than that, the very name of Quisling—it has almost a weasel sound—will be perpetuated in the dictionaries of every language as a synonym for traitor. That is the hardest fate of all—to remain forever a symbol of foul ingratitude.

Exploiting Color Season

THE famous Newaygo color tours promotion in Lower Michigan, which was cancelled during the war, will be revived and Oct. 7 to 14 has been selected as the week of tours.

Before the war, Newaygo attracted many late-season tourists who wished to see the autumnal colors in that region. As proof that the promotion was worthwhile, the Newaygo business men are resuming the project, now that motorists are no longer hindered by travel restrictions.

Exploitation of the fall colors is something that can be done advantageously in the Upper Peninsula. The Copper Country, for instance, has attracted many visitors during the season when Nature paints the trees and shrubs with its brightest hues. Other highways and byways also have colorful scenery to offer. The Upper Peninsula is overlooking a good bet if it doesn't fill in the period between the hay fever and deer hunting seasons with a bang-up good promotion of color tours.

FAILURE OF COUNTY REFORM

(Marinette Eagle-Star)

Edward W. Weidner, now teaching at the University of Minnesota and formerly an instructor in political science at the University of Wisconsin, has an excellent article entitled "County Reform Run-Around" in the September issue of the National Municipal Review. It is a comprehensive treatment of the reasons why legislators have sidestepped Wisconsin proposals for constitutional amendment.

He refers specifically to what is known as the Daugs resolution calling for an amendment that was intended to permit counties to adopt optional forms of government and which, as is the case with every constitutional amendment, needed the approval of two successive sessions of the legislature before it could be submitted to the electorate. It will be recalled that the resolution won approval in the 1943 session and then was automatically killed in the 1945 session when the assembly voted 61 to 31 against it.

It was not a new proposal, as Prof. Weidner points out in his article, because the attempt to reform county government in the state is at least 25 years old, but so far as the legislature is concerned the struggle has been confined to the last four sessions. Proof that the legislatures have nibbled at reforms is the new law which calls for township elections every two years instead of annually.

Prof. Weidner has put his finger on the causes of the defeat of the Daugs resolution, but perhaps has not sufficiently stressed them. Probably foremost was the stalwart opposition of the County Boards Association, which opposition was thoroughly organized on a county-to-county basis. Some legislators acted in the dual capacity of supervisors and legislators and passed twice on the proposal—first informally as supervisors and then formally as legislators.

The County Boards Association was motivated by fear of losing "power and influence," the writer relates, and of course it had little difficulty in selling county board its bill of goods, for the anti-reform attitude of the county boards leaves them always in a receptive mood.

Speculation that the county manager system might be installed by some counties if the reform occurred was another deterrent, even though it was pointed out that county boards themselves would have to institute reform. The mere mention of manager plan of government amounts to an anathema to some of the county politicians of the state.

The third influence against the Daugs resolution was the activity of the Wisconsin League of Women Voters. This organization was likened to one which dabbled too much, instead of concentrating on a few major issues. Prof. Weidner points out in this respect that legislators, particularly those from the rural areas, resent groups such as the league and consider them theorists who do not understand the "practical aspects" of politics.

In other words, the league didn't play a game of practical politics. Its officers were too quick on the trigger, ever ready to place the league on record for or against a public issue. There has long been a natural resentment against women in politics among some old timers, however unjustified. It wasn't many years ago, to cite one example ,that a county board delayed making alterations at the courthouse which were required before women could serve as jurors. Members of that board were opposed to women on juries, just on general principles. Candidly, the Daugs resolution would have had a better chance if the league had kept out of the picture, viewing the subject from the standpoint of practical politics.

Prof. Weidner names still another factor, and that was the division of opinion, both in and out of the legislature, as to whether the proposed resolution should repeal both the uniformity clause and the clause requiring certain elective county officers. This question most assuredly should be settled before another attempt at reform of county government is made.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

SUNDAY POTLUCK

Little Rock: A radio speaker recently used the word "consultive" several times. Should he not have said "consultative"?—A. A. B.

Answer: The word may be spelled either way, and there is no difference in the meaning, "pertaining to consultation." Consultive is pronounced: kun-SULL-tiv. Consultative is: kun-SULL-tuh-tiv.

Ogden: We have an argument. Is the expression "no soap" slang, or good English?—O. B.

Answer: It used to be slang. Now it's the statement of a fact.

Ariton: Where does the accent fall in the word "OASIS"?—H. D.

Answer: This ancient word entered English through Latin and Greek from the Egyptian. Best American usage is: oh-AY-siss.

St. Louis: A Hollywood star, the daughter of a former boxing champion, on a recent broadcast referred to her father as the "cham-PEEN." Please comment.—H. T. L.

Answer: That's prize fighter's lingo, and the mispronunciation should have been noted and corrected when the broadcast was rehearsed. Of course, the correct pronunciation is: CHAM-pee-un.

A similar error heard far too frequently is "yer-uh-PEEN" for the word European. The word has four syllables, thus: YOO-roe-PEE'un. And Europe decidedly is not "yerp." Better say: YOO-rup.

Wichita Falls: Is "modernistic" an accepted word in architecture and decorating? A friend says "modern" fills the bill. What's the good word?—Mrs. W. W. S.

Answer: Modernistic, as used by architects, furniture dealers, and decorators, describes a style of decorative art which departs radically from the traditional or conventional. Modernistic art is often spoken of as "futuristic," or "impressionistic."

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Too many people are writing as though all the evidence on Pearl Harbor were finally in. That is a dangerous assumption.

We have been told that Governor Dewey declined to use the knowledge that he had obtained as to the breaking of the Japanese code prior to Pearl Harbor after an appeal from General Marshall who, as chief of staff, warned that to do so might cost American lives.

Childs

The effort is to make it seem that President Roosevelt participated in an elaborate plot to "Get Us Into" the war. This comes, for the most part, from the isolationists who blocked every move to prepare the country to meet a possible attack; the isolationists who kept repeating that nothing could harm America at the very time when the Nazis had put every German scientists to searching for an atomic explosive.

—SAID ATTACK WAS PROBABLE—

The evidence is not in by any means, and the conclusions based on partial evidence are likely to look rather foolish. Nor did everyone in the Republican party share Governor Dewey's conviction of Roosevelt's guilt. I can reveal the following episode that took place as the tragedy of Pearl Harbor neared its climax.

On December 5, 1941, President Roosevelt dictated a letter to Wendell L. Willkie. That letter dealt largely with the semi-official invitation that Willkie had received from Australia to visit that country. This, it must be remembered, was against the background of Willkie's highly successful visit to England early in 1941.

Roosevelt said he was heartily in sympathy with a visit by Willkie to Australia. He wanted to do everything he could to help arrange that visit. He hoped it would strengthen our relations with Australia and New Zealand.

Then he spoke about the danger of an armed clash with Japan. He spoke of the "Forward Progress" of the Japanese against the Philippines, Java and Malaya. He said that an armed clash could come at any moment.

The letter was not mailed until December 8. Roosevelt wrote on it, in his own hand, a postscript saying that it had been dictated Friday morning (Dec. 7 was Sunday) "long before this vile attack."

Willkie showed that letter to several people. Its existence was known to the high command of the Dewey campaign. In fact, they made strenuous efforts to obtain it, hoping that it would serve as documentation, however, slight, for the charge that Roosevelt allowed Pearl Harbor to happen.

Apparently Willkie did not think that the letter showed any such culpability. At any rate. It is a fact that before his death he took steps to keep that document out of the reach of those who wanted to make political use of it. That was one of the last acts of his life.

It is so easy to rationalize what might have been. It is so easy to use phrases like "Public Opinion" and "Telling the People the Truth."

—COULD HAVE TOLD MORE—

It seems to me that Roosevelt might have gone much further in telling us all what the realities were. But saying that, you have to remember that at the same time there were powerful forces—powerful organs of opinion—bent on keeping back the truth and branding Roosevelt as a warmonger.

The enemy had made his intentions perfectly clear. While the Tanaka memorial may not be an authentic document, it did reveal as early as 1927 the step-by-step plan for Japanese conquest of the world. A lot of it came true in Asia in the thirties.

Hitler, in Mein Kampf, laid it out in unmistakable language. No democracy could exist in his path of conquest. Some would fall from without and some from within.

Many of us wanted to shut out this knowledge. It was uncomfortable. You couldn't "tell us" because we didn't want to listen.

These were the difficult imponderables with which Roosevelt was faced. They were as real as the Panzer Divisions that swept across Europe.

Wendell Willkie had come to understand the trial and the crisis we were going through. He would not lend himself to the effort to convict Roosevelt of a childish plot to "Get Us Into War."

Back to Prewar Normalcy

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler—

ABRACADABRA—Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, well-known psychologist and author, was one of the speakers at the Parent Education Institute and Delta County Teachers Institute held recently in Escanaba. Illustrating something or other in one of his talks, he mentioned that until he consulted the dictionary he did not know what abracadabra meant.

Dunathan

He did not tell his audience what it meant, and for at least one person who heard him that afternoon, the word "abracadabra — abracadabra — abracadabra" went spinning around in his head. That person was a Daily Press reporter who had difficulty concentrating on Dr. Overstreets's talk because he was fascinated by a word.

What did it mean?

When he returned to the editorial rooms of the Press he inquired around, trying to find if others knew something he didn't. He considered that since his business was dealing in words, he should know, but he hesitated at consulting the dictionary until he had determined, by questioning others, whether they also might have this blind spot in their vocabulary.

* * *

FEW ARE RIGHT—The game was taken up by others in the Daily Press office, and after a comparison of notes it was found that few persons knew the meaning of abracadabra. One of the women working in the office was able to define its meaning, placing her in a position above that of some teachers and other school people who were consulted.

* * *

DEFINITION — Getting back to the original thought of consulting the dictionary, the reporter found the following definition:

"Abracadabra. Of unknown origin. A mystic word or collocation of letters written in the form of a triangle. Worn on an amulet it was supposed to ward off fever. Now used jestingly as something without meaning; jargon."

* * *

DIGGING DEEPER — Going from Webster's Unabridged to the office enclycopedia, the reporter found still more information.

"Abracadabra. A cabalistic word, or formula, constructed from the letters of the alphabet, used by Basilidian Gnostics of the second century; and later a spell to secure the assistance of good spirits against evil; supposed, when written in the form of a triangle and worn round the neck for nine days, to act as a charm against fevers, etc. It first occurs in a poem by Samonicus, (second century). See Abraxas."

After seeing Abraxas, it was discovered that Abraxas was also a word of mystic origin, and was cut by the Basilidian Gnostics on gems "together with monstrous figures of men."

* * *

LIKE CAPT. MARVEL — For all the staid and encyclopedic terminology, the net result seems to be somewhat similar to a Captain Marvel comic book. If you have no young children in your house the allusion may be unfamiliar, because adults seldom read the comic books.

It should be explained, therefore, that Capt. Marvel is none other than an older edition of another character named Billy Batson. All that it is necessary to do to become the "marvel man" who can fly around "assisting the good spirits against evil" is to utter the magic-word "Shazam!" complete with exclamation point. Immediately the word is uttered a bolt of lightning comes zooming down to transform the principal characters (including a gal named Mary, a twin of Billy's) into specimens of superhuman strength and wisdom.

There is also another character in the comic books called Pluto or something the magician. He also has a few mystic words he spouts at opportune moments. The kids eat it up.

Even a glance at a comic book will show there is no dearth of "monstrous figures of men" such as the word Abraxas was supposed to keep in their places in the second century. In fact some of the comic book monsters are guaranteed to give an impressionable child cold chills for a week.

* * *

GROWING UP—Parents have often wondered what children find so fascinating in comic books. Dr. Overstreet, the psychologist, would probably agree that their appeal is based on the mind of the juvenile, fascinated by the mystical and the magic.

For all of our modern education and our progressive school systems, the subconscious mind of the child is that of the adult mind of man of the second century. If "Abracadabra" was a magic symbol then, "Shazam" is its twentieth century counterpart for our boys and girls.

Revealing too is the inability of most adults to define "Abracadabra," while our youngsters are considered unread in their own circle if they didn't know the meaning of "Shazam."

—Clint Dunathan.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Washington — The Interstate Commerce commission Monday denied approval of a contract between the Chicago and North Western railway and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, providing for the pooling of interstate ore traffic and division of the earnings from the Menominee range in Michigan and Wisconsin to Escanaba. Opposing the application for approval of the contract were the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad and several interested shippers.

Sault Ste .Marie—Former Governor Chase S. Osborn urged the building of the Straits of Mackinac bridge as Michigan's centennial monument.

Delmont H. Ray, 73, resident of Escanaba over half a century and a retired C&NW railway engineer, died Sunday at his home, 400 South Eighth street.

The main problem confronting this country today is the obtaining of the proper distribution of income so that the people may be able to purchase the commodities they helped to produce, John Reid, Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Federation of Labor, said in a talk at a meeting of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council at North Star hall.

Geo. N. Harder, general manager of the I. Stephenson company, was elected president of the National Hardwood Lumber association at its meeting in Chicago.

20 Years Ago—1925

Milwaukee—Returns from 2,377 precincts out of 2,692 gave victory to Young Bob LaFollette of Madison in his race for the U. S. senatorship from Wisconsin.

Mrs. Carl Wickman returned to her home after being a patient at St. Francis hospital.

Robert Selkirk, who for the past year has been connected with the Robb studio here, left Monday for Appleton, Wis., where he will study under J. J. Froelich at the Froelich studios.

Q&A Service

—By WS Bureau

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, and (IMPORTANT) MAIL THE LETTER and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SERVICE BUREAU, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone: write as directed.

G. I. SERVICE

Q. What is the deadline for mailing Christmas gifts to men still overseas?

A. October 15. Senders should be sure that those for whom the gifts are intended expect to be overseas at Christmas.

Q. Recently a military convoy passed an intersection with the traffic lights red. Does the military convoy have the right-of-way at intersections?

A. According to the War Department, a military convoy has the right-of-way.

Q. Does the Marine Corps have higher physical standards for enlistment than those for the Navy?

A. No; the standards are exactly the same.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. How much was raised in the 1945 March of Dimes campaign?

A. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reports that the record sum of $16,589,874 was collected.

Q. A friend told me that it requires more than 100 tons of blueprints to design a modern battleship. Is that true?

A. One hundred and seventy-five tons of blueprint paper were used to build the super battleship MISSOURI.

Q. How many U. S. submarines were lost in World War II?

A. Of the fifty-two submarines lost, forty-three failed to return from war patrols, four are known to have been sunk, two were destroyed to prevent capture and three of the old type were stricken from the Navy list.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q. Is it true that a man has one less rib than a woman?

A. No; this belief arises from the Biblical account in Genesis describing the creation, in which it is stated that God took one of Adam's ribs and from it fashioned Eve, the woman. Men and women both have twelve pairs of ribs.

Q. Which are better for baking pies, glass pie plates or the metal ones?

A. We think the glass plates are best because they enable one to see when the pie is baked at the bottom, and are thick enough to prevent the bottom of the pie from burning before it is thoroughly cooked. A 24-page booklet, PIES AND PASTRIES — recipes for nearly one hundred kinds of pies, tarts and party pastries, may be obtained from the Escanaba Daily Press Service Bureau, 1217—13th St., Washington 5, D. C., by sending this clipping, your name and address and 10 cents to cover postage and handling costs.

LEADERS OF WORLD WAR II

A 24-page booklet—LEADERS OF NATIONS AT WAR — background and character sketches of the leaders of the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Union, China, Germany, Italy, Japan and France—and a 4000-word account of AMERICAN WARS—from the Revolution to World War I inclusive, now available. To get both copies, send this clipping with 10 cents to cover postage and handling costs. Include name and address clearly written, and mail to Escanaba Daily Press Washington Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Last week this column revealed that two military intelligence colonels in Washington warned their superiors that the Germans were about to launch the disastrous Belgian bulge attack in December 1944, and urged that General Eisenhower be put on guard. It was also revealed how this advice had been ignored with the result that American forces in the Ardennes forest were caught off-guard and their thin line of defense wiped out, resulting in 60,000 casualties and weeks of further warfare. An additional chapter to this tragic blunder can now be told.

Pearson

On Dec. 10, 1944, six days before the German surprise attack, Col. B. Albert Dickson, chief of intelligence for the Second Army, wrote a strong report to his superiors warning that a German offensive was coming. His report, labelled "No. 37," is in the files of the war department and is available to any senate committee wanting to get the real truth regarding this blunder which cost so many American lives.

Colonel Dickson reported that from interviewing captured German prisoners, he was convinced they were planning a big attack. He reported a new spirit of jubilant enthusiasm on the part of the Germans he interviewed, a new determination to escape and go back to fight in the offensive. He even reported that the Germans were training men to infiltrate behind American lines as American soldiers.

It will be remembered that later, Nazi troops were found dressed in American uniforms behind our lines.

Colonel Dickson even prepared a map showing villages where German reserves were billeted in preparation for the Belgian bulge attack. And he urged that they be bombed out immediately. This recommendation was never followed. If it had been, the story of tragic American losses would have been different.

Instead, the 12th Army group wrote a report on Dec. 12, refuting Colonel Dickson's report of Dec. 10. It replied that such an attack could not happen.

Later, on Dec. 16, SHAEF, the headquarters of General Eisenhower, wrote a G-2 "Appreciation," stating that a German surprise attack could not happen. However, Dec. 16, the date of this report, was the actual day it did happen.

So, later in the day, SHAEF hastily withdrew this "appreciation" and substituted three other pages in its report. The original report, therefore, may not be available to a congressional committee. However, if the Senate asks for the "After Action" report on the bulge battle, it will find that it contains in black and white the story of how the army was warned the Nazi attack was coming, and was even urged to bomb the waiting German reserves, but completely ignored that warning.

NOTE—U. S. casualties in the bulge were 660,000 compared with less than 3,000 at Pearl Harbor.

—TRUMAN DESERTS FDR—

How drastically Harry Truman and Attorney General Tom Clark are deserting one of Franklin Roosevelt's principles was indicated by a recent incident which few people noticed.

One of the great battles Roosevelt fought was against the big uitlity companies. But the other day, a judge appointed by Truman to one of the most important courts in the country handled a case, even after his confirmation, on behalf of one of the big power companies. He is Judge Wilbur Miller, recently appointed to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, which handles more important test cases than any other appeals court in the nation.

However, even after Miller was confirmed by the Senate, he appeared last week before the Federal Power Commission on behalf of the Kentucky Natural Gas company.

This makes it unanimous. For both of the other two judges Truman appointed to this important appeals court, ex-Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri and Barrett Prettyman, also have been attorneys for the Big Power companies or have been anti-public power.

NOTE—Bennett Clark was defeated for the Senate by the people of Missouri last year after many bitter years of isolationist opposition to Roosevelt's foreign policies. However, he worked valiantly for Truman's nomination at Chicago.

—MOVIE MOGULS—

Last week a galaxy of the most powerful moguls of the movie world paid a visit on Attorney General Tom Clark. Probably no more high-priced men ever entered the attorney general's office at one time before in history. The group included:

Barney Balaban, head of Paramount; Albert Warner of Warner Brothers; Nick Schenck of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century Fox, and Peter Rathbone, head of RKO.

They entered Clark's office, laid a brief on his desk and departed. The visit lasted exactly six minutes.

Since the salaries of these movie moguls average around $200,000 a year each without bonuses or stock dividends, and since they were accompanied by a battery of legal counsel probably drawing from $50,000 to $100,000 annually each, it was estimated that this six-minute session, including travel time from New York, cost $25,000.

The brief they handed Clark opposed the government's anti-trust suit against the movie industry.

Most people who take things as they come don't know what to do with them.

People who live on second, third and fourth floors probably don't blame the cliff dwellers for becoming extinct.

Clothes are back in style again, much to the disgust of the bathing beach queens.

Odd Fellows Elect Officers; Next Meet To Be At Marquette

Election of officers highlighted the afternoon session of the Odd Fellows convention held here yesterday, when more than 250 members and their families attended the twenty-second semi-annual convention of the William J. Collins Association at the I. O. O. F. hall, North Tenth street.

Newly elected officers for the coming year are: President, Henning Carlson, Menominee; vice-president, Linwood Trebilcock, Ishpeming; secretary, Howard C. Schrandt, Marquette; treasurer, C. N. Wood, Escanaba; warden, Vern Wicklander, Escanaba; conductor, Lyle Hanley, Soo; chaplain, Charles Closs, St. Ignace; adviser, William J. Collins, PGM, Iron River.

Appearing on the afternoon program were Dr. Charles Klump of Lansing, who introduced the visiting grand officers, and Rev. John Anstead of Grand Rapids, who was the principal speaker. Amendments were discussed, which will be taken up later at a meeting in Lansing, and committee reports were heard. The I. O. O. F. lodges in Upper Michigan have purchased 12 more hospital beds and 3 more wheel chairs, which are loaned to patients who are ill at home. It was decided to hold the spring convention at Marquette.

A banquet, served by members of the Phoebe Rebekah lodge with Mrs. Albert Gustafson in charge, was held in the evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. Following the banquet, there was a short evening session and at 9:30, a dance and social evening was well attended by lodge members and their wives.

Grand officers who came to Escanaba for the convention were Grand Master James H. Trebilcock, Wakefield; Grand Secretary Dr. Charles F. Klump, Lansing; Grand Herald John Spurr, Calumet; Grand Chaplain Rev. Ernest Brown, Iron Mountain; Grand Warden Earl F. Pfaff; Associate Grand Chaplain and Lecturer Rev. John Armstead, Grand Rapids.

Out of Town Delegates

Travelling the greatest distance to attend the meeting were Ed Baird and Alfred C. Neilson of North Dakota.

Among the delegates who were here for the occasion were: Chris H. Gribble, PGM, Hermansville; Henning Carlson, Emil Madsen and James E. Davis, Menominee; F. H. Grenfell, Alonzo C. Nicholls, Herbert Stansbury, Linwood Trebilcock, G. F. Rogers, Ishpeming; Melvin Clark, Orville Schult, Charles J. Closs, Melville Lant, St. Ignace; R. P. Stanaway, Richard Pryor, Arthur Andrews, Orville Crooks, Paul Helgren, Negaunee; Frank Runsat, Hilding Carlson, Holtlief Thorsen, Munising; J. Charles Royce, James A. Penman, J. A. Everitt, Sault Ste. Marie;

W. J. Collins, O. J. Collins, Ernest Champion, Iron River; Earl Numinen, Ed Wilmens, E. J. Watts, Michigamme; Henry Hathaway, Wesley Hanson, Silas McMartin and Chester Severinsen, Escanaba; A. E. LeMieux, Howard C. Schrandt, J. Emil Johnson, John A. Peterson, Roy E. Johnson, C. J. Erickson, Marquette; Edward C. Stevens, Negaunee; Darle G. Widdus, Munising; Harry E. Allen, Lyle Hamley, Sault Ste. Marie.

At 12:30 yesterday afternoon cars driven by James Modesto of Chicago and Ray Wery of Wilson collided at Twenty-third street and Ludington, injuring two persons. Mrs. Wery suffered a leg injury, and Leonard Russo of Chicago, in the Modesto car, received slight injuries. Both persons received treatment at St. Francis hospital and were released.

Lake Shore Gets Winch Contract

Marquette — The Lake Shore Engineering company has unfilled postwar orders for cargo vessel winches that represent a greater volume of production than was recorded at its Marquette plant at any time during the war, it was stated here yesterday by F. A. Flodin, of Iron Mountain, president of the company, who said "there is enough business on hand to keep the plant in continuous operation at full capacity until July of 1946."

Explaining that cancellations of war contracts held by the Lake Shore involve only a small percentage of its total business, Mr. Flodin said the company's postwar prospects are "very good," but that it is confronted with a shortage of labor which stands as a major problem. Men are needed in several departments of the plant—especially unskilled labor, Flodin stated, and he urged men who want jobs to consult Burt L. Watt, plant manager, without delay.

Delta Bridge League Opening Well Attended

BY L. W. OLSON

With the largest opening night crowd of several years in attendance, the Delta Bridge League opened its 1945-46 season with a session of duplicate pair play at the Elks Club lodge rooms. Twenty-eight boards were played and finished before midnight. Everyone had a most enjoyable evening.

Incidentally, one of the hands in Section Number One was a dandy. This was not a set hand but actually dealt and played at the Friday meeting this last week. That it was enjoyed by all who played it was evidenced by the grins of satisfaction of those who made this fine hand.

North and South vulnerable. South, dealer.

The bidding at every table was pretty much the same with the final contract being six spades by the North player. The opening lead was in all cases the king of clubs. This was in all cases taken with the ace in dummy. The contract at this point looks as though it were on ice and declarer starts to draw the trump and gets the bad news. Before declarer gets this bad news he has no doubt been figuring on making a grand slam. This hope he must now give up and play to make his contract. With this plan in mind, declarer at this point gives the defenders a trick in clubs. Regardless of what the defenders return, declarer now must run his three heart tricks and the two high diamonds and then trumps the third round of diamonds in his own hand and then trumps the last club with a high trump in the dummy. From here on in declarer has easy sailing while West sits and bites his finger-nails and plays his small trumps under declarer's.

Pairs scoring 50 per cent in last week's duplicate game were as follows:

Section One

1. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Murdock, 64.54.
2. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Howe, 62.57.
3. Dr. J. J. Walch and H. H. Shepeck, 56.23.

EUROPE RIVERS UNDER CONTROL

Rhine And Danube Long Administered By Riparian States

Washington—The international control of European rivers and other interior waterways now proposed is essential for both economic and strategic reasons to the nations occupying central portions of the continent, and it is a type of navigation control with which Europe is familiar. The Rhine, the Danube and the Oder are perhaps the most important of these inland water routes, but involved are other rivers and many connecting barge canals that play an important part in European trade transportation.

The Rhine, in 1868, was thrown open under the management of a Rhineland commission to vessels of all nations after a long period during which toll was collected from vessels of other than the riparian states. The Treaty of Versailles changed this very little, but did add to the commission representatives of England, Belgium, Switzerland and Italy. The nations served particularly by the Rhine are Germany, the Netherlands, France, and, to a degree, Switzerland. With more than one-half the length of the river within prewar Germany, it was easy for Hitler to assume control even before the outbreak of the war.

Danube Is Important

The Danube is an important water route to the Black sea for southern Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria. It is their only water shipping route to the ocean, with the exception of northern Czechoslovakia, which has an interest in the Oder.

The prewar Oder was almost entirely throughout its navigable portions within Germany but it will now be either within Poland or the boundary between Poland and the postwar Germany. Its mouth in the Baltic sea and its great port of Stettin will be entirely within the new Polish area according to present plans, but it is important to Germany and particularly to Berlin.

The Rhine is navigable for one type of vessel or another for 550 miles from its mouths in the Netherlands through which it empties into the North sea. Heavy vessels can ascend the river to the southern extremity of the Cologne plain at the city of Bonn. Steamers of considerable size use the river from there south to Mainz. From Mainz to the Swiss border, flat-bottomed river barges are used. Many canals connect the Rhine with rivers in Germany, a fact that complicates international control.

A Shallow River

The Danube, extending approximately 1,750 miles from the Black Forest in southwestern Germany to the Black sea, is a relatively narrow shallow river in its river barges below Regensburg, Germany. A European commission, on which eight nations were represented, was given control of the Danubian delta in 1896. After World War I, this commission, which had been abolished by the Axis during the war, was restored, and an international commission, with representatives of the riparian states and of France, Italy and England, was given control of the Danube from the delta to its upper navigable reaches. Germany resigned from this commission in 1936, and Hitler, from 1940 on, ruled the river traffic.

Leathem Smith Yard Will Repair Boats

Sturgeon Bay (AP)—The Leathem D. Smith Shipbuilding company announced today it had secured contracts for repair and new construction work on three bulk carriers which will require the employment of between 300 and 400 workers over the winter months.

The ships expected to arrive at the yards about Dec. 1 for repairs are the Shenango, 585-foot craft owned and operated by the Shenango Furnace company, Cleveland the 580-foot Willis K. King, of the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation fleet, Pittsburgh; and the 406-foot Presque Isle, owned by the Presque Isle Steamship company, a division of Cleveland Cliffs Iron company.

Only two ships of the wartime building boom remain to be delivered by the Smith yards, the USS Coastal Liberator and the water tanker YW132.

With The AEF

Kenneth L. Dixon

Westbound from Honolulu, (AP)—There's an old saying among GI's that the American soldier isn't really at home any place overseas until he has come to hate that particular foreign spot with a passion peculiar to the unwanting wanderer.

Dixon

And the second half of that saying is that he never learns to like a place until he has his orders to leave.

Both are true. But it is especially of the latter that I'm thinking at the moment. For now I've left Hawaii—the place where I stopped to make a phone call and stayed a month—and although I've been itching to leave all that time, suddenly I now find myself already waxing tentatively nostalgic about Oahu.

Since it meant missing a chance to help cover the surrender ceremonies in Tokyo Bay, I wasn't too happy about Hawaii from the outset. Then I began to run into servicemen who'd been stationed there for many months and they gave me the business.

"Pearl of the Pacific, huh?" They'd exclaim with tones of men who have just been played for suckers by circus sideshow barkers. "Boy, just wait until we get back and tell those steamship lines off!"

Razz Waikiki Beach

Or else they'd go into detailed lurid discussions of their opinions of the much publicized Waikiki Beach—usually comparing it unfavorably with some swimming hole or two-by-four strip of sand along the Atlantic Coast.

"Women," they'd say, "women for whom?" And they had a legitimate gripe there. Nobody has issued any official figures on the ratio of women to men in Honolulu, but with servicemen jamming the city about one to 50 seems a fair estimate.

Most restaurants, cafes and saloons were off limits at least until recently. Movie theaters were so packed that they required reservations hours and sometimes days ahead if a good show was playing.

And everything closed so early that after dark there was literally nothing for the drifting servicemen to do.

Of course, if they had swimming trunks and a place to change they could try out Waikiki Beach. But most of them had gotten such erroneous and hifaluting impressions from travel folders and the like that the Pacific's most famed dunking spot turned out to be a terrific disappointment.

But looking back at it now it seems to this correspondent that such preconceived expectations have caused most of the damage during the doughboys wanderings in the war just ended.

Even Capri Was Letdown

I seem to recall it was that way in Africa where the GIs though they'd find only hot weather—but froze their feet all winter in Tunisia. And "Sunny Italy" unleashed tirades of bitterness from every rain-soaked, frost-bitten doughboy outside Cassino.

Even the Isle of Capri was a letdown to many a soldier because it failed to live up to the dreams he'd built from popular song.

Maybe it's that way with Hawaii. Any serviceman still stationed there probably will blow his top if he reads this but I'm inclined to suspect half the reason most of us were so disillusioned about far places is our own fault.

We form fantastic preconceived notions about what we will find there and then are so busy being bitter about not finding them that we don't bother to look around for what is to be found.

Already I'm remembering the brilliant beauty of those blood red sunsets through the palm trees. And the way the full moon hung high and white over Diamond Head. And that spectacular motion-frozen appearance of surfboard riders skimming the crest of waves into Waikiki Beach.

Even Waikiki itself already is a pleasant memory for it was a good place to swim. And there were women there—beautiful women in bathing suits. True, for most of us they were just there to look at, not even to talk to, for each one was surrounded by would-be swains before we ever reached the beach.

But something tells me there's many an atoll farther west where GIs would give six months pay just to spend a couple of afternoons lying on Waikiki's sands watching the surfboarders come sweeping in from the sea and especially watching the smooth-looking babes go sweeping by.

So Okay Oahu. You're letting me get away without a single lei and there's no hula band on Hickam Field's black-topped runway. But nostalgia's fatal spell, which always goes hand in hand with a farewell, already is working and I'll come back someday.

62 Drug Store Licenses Revoked

Iron Mountain—Licenses of 62 Michigan pharmacists—22 in Detroit and only one in upper Michigan, at the Sault—were suspended by the state board of pharmacy in a session recently at the summer home of James W. Lyons, Gratiot beach, in lower Michigan, according to A. G. Buchman, Iron Mountain druggist and chairman of the board.

The licenses were suspended under the so-called "grandfather" clause of the 1943 pharmacy code.

A section of the 1943 code, called the "grandfather" clause, permitted druggists with 25 years experience, prior to 1933, under the supervision of registered pharmacists, to qualify for licenses without being pharmacy school graduates.

"Veterans who were forced to leave pharmacy schools because of induction into the Armed forces, will be given every consideration from the board in aiding them in completing their courses," Mr. Buchman said.

Checking Other Cases

The board is now reviewing the records of some 100 other pharmacists, for qualification under the Decker law, which provides that any one who has been a registered assistant pharmacist, by examination, and has 10 years experience, may file for full registration.

The checkup was started some time ago by the Michigan branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association. Subsequently the supreme court of Michigan ordered the state board of pharmacy to check into the situation; call hearings and revoke the licenses of all pharmacists who were not qualified under the law. Of 79 cases reviewed, 62 licenses were suspended.

Record Potato Crop Poses Price Problem

By WILLIAM PARKER
(The Wall Street Journal)

Washington—Agriculture Secretary Anderson is over a barrel—a potato barrel.

The second-greatest spud crop in American history, together with cuts in Army and lend-lease buying, sagging prices and fears of growers and their congressmen—all these add up to a peck of potato trouble for the new secretary.

Besides the worried potato growers, most other farmers are watching how the Government handles its hot potato program. That's because the Government's wartime promise of guaranteed prices for farm products, extending at least until December 31, 1947, is getting its first test.

The magnitude of this test is indicated by Mr. Anderson's statement that he's prepared to speed up to $60 million in supporting the price of the 1945 potato crop, at the promised level, 90 per cent of parity. Some observers say he'll be lucky if he gets out that cheaply.

Average Crop Just Meets Demand

Potato production this year will total nearly 433 million bushels, according to latest official estimates—a mamoth harvest exceeded only by the 465 million bushels of 1943. In comparison, last year's crop was 379 million bushels. The decade 1934-43 produced an average of 375 million: these old-fashioned crops would be just about right for current demand, which is estimated at 380 million bushels.

The war couldn't have ended at a worse time, from the standpoint of finding an outlet for the bumper 1945 crop. Contracts for dehydrating mountains of potatoes for Army and lend-lease use overseas were suddenly cancelled. These would have taken a large part of the 53 million bushel surplus now threatening. The soldier abroad is not disappointed to be sure—the dehydrated potato long ago lost its appeal for him.

Normally, potato prices would now be nosediving and lots of the surplus would just stay off the market. But the potato grower holds a gilt-edge pledge from Congress and White House, given early in the war as a spur to production. The pledge: that all farm products for which increased production was requested would be supported at not less than 90 per cent parity for two years after the first of January following the official end of the war. Since the war is still officially raging, it's quite possible that this support system will be operating more than three years after V-J Day.

Second of Three Crops Overflows Bins

There are three big potato crops each year. The early harvest moved commercially with only slight aid from Uncle Sam. But in midsummer, when the large intermediate crop started to roll to market, the Government's potato buying program had to begin in earnest.

The Government announced it stood ready to buy any grower's potatoes at 90 per cent of parity if he were unable to find a commercial buyer who would offer him that much. The theory was that the trade would have to meet the government price if it wanted any potatoes. Had this theory succeeded. The Government would have got off lightly.

In practice, the Government had to buy 6,328 carloads of spuds between August 1 and September 15, and it is still buying.

This is the equivalent of 3.8 million bushels of potatoes for which the Government has no use. The total intermediate crop is estimated at 33 million bushels. The late crop now beginning to pour to market will run around 336 million bushels. So the major part of the Government's price support task still lies ahead.

The chief reason for the Government being saddled with nearly 4 million bushels of spuds apparently is this: As the commercial price of potatoes declined towards the support price, growers became less interested in finding buyers. They figured that the crop now belonged to the Government, so let the Government come and get them. Growers have since been told that if they expect the price support program to be a success, they must make every effort to move as much of the crop as possible through commercial channels.

2,467 Carloads Go In Storage

Of the 6,328 cars of spuds bought during the month and a half, 2,467 went into storage (332 are in the refrigerated cave near Atchinson, Kans., which the department rented), 836 cars were given to such domestic relief uses as school lunches and institutions, 1,253 fed cattle on state and federal experimental farms, 1,239 were made into starch under contract and at a loss, 32 cars went to distillers, also at a loss—and three cars are listed as "sold".

No loss is reported on the three cars "sold."

To make room for the late crop the intermediates should be out of the way—both out of storage and out of grocers' bins—before the late crop starts moving in volume. To accomplish this, the Agriculture Department is looking in desperation for new spots to place the remaining intermediates it must buy during the next few weeks. In New Jersey and Texas it will buy the potatoes from a farmer and allow him to store them for the Government in pits or banks (a pile of potatoes covered with earth).

According to the most recent plans, the late crop will be handled differently. Instead of buying the potatoes, the government will make loans to growers at rates which will assure them the promised 90 per cent of parity. At any time after the loan is made, should the grower find a buyer who is willing to pay more than the amount the government loan, he can redeem the loan and sell the potatoes in commercial channels. If, on the other hand, the buying price does not reach the loan rate by the time the loan expires, the government takes title of the potatoes, or what is left of them.

Big Losses on Farms Forecast

It was originally planned that loans would be offered only on potatoes stored under proper conditions, but it soon became obvious, there would be nowhere near enough space. So loans will be made on potatoes stored in pits, in piles, in cellars and bins. Some fear is felt that many farmers, having received their loans, will take the attitude that the goods now belong to the government, so let the government come and take care of them. If so, the loss through freezing, rotting and sprouting will be dismal.

If the department should corner the potato market under its loan program, it should be able to maintain the commercial price at or near the loan price. Then it would lose money only on the 53 million bushel surplus. If it fails to keep the commercial price up to 90 per cent of parity, the government stands to take a beating on the entire harvest.

What to do with the surplus 53 million bushels is one of the most baffling parts of the potato puzzle.

Many congressmen from potato states (officially there are 49 potato states: California is listed twice, for early and late spuds) are obsessed with the idea that the surplus potatoes can be eaten.

A highly publicized potato dinner, to encourage increased consumption, is being jointly sponsored by Senator Brewster, Republican, of the Maine potato and Senator Thomas, Democrat, of the Idaho baking potato.

Economists place little hope in this approach. Potatoes, like coffins, are a classic of inelastic demand.

U. N. R. R. A. Help In Disposal Sought

As the next suggestion, congressmen want the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to ship the surplus to Europe to feed the starving millions there. A reported hitch to this proposal is that Europe also has a bumper crop. The only country which wants potatoes is Germany, which is ineligible for such aid. U. N. R. R. A. officials say potatoes could be sent to China, but the U. N. R. R. A. is short of cash and will probably wait until it can either buy the potatoes cheap or until Congress gives money to take the surplus off the American market.

While the relief outlet for the surplus crop will be explored, Secretary Anderson is looking to the starch and alcohol plants to absorb most of the excess supplies. Starch factories can convert potato to starch into glucose, which is in strong demand because of the sugar shortage. He expects alcohol and starch to take about 35 million bushels of the surplus. However, both starch and alcohol producers only use potatoes when they are selling at rock bottom prices, so the government will have to absorb a large loss on that 35 million bushels.

Mr. Anderson is striving to make a success of the support price program not only to save the hides of the potato growers, but also to demonstrate to all farmers that the government will not welsh on its promise to keep farm prices up during the reconversion years.

Some observers think that failure now might make the long time job of supporting prices easier. They reason that it will be difficult if not impossible to guarantee prices without cutting production. So far, they say, the Agriculture Department has not come forth with any plan for bringing future crops in line with prospective peacetime demand. A collapse of a price support program under the weight of an overwhelming surplus would be a convincing demonstration to farmers that prices cannot be artificially maintained in the face of unlimited production.

American consumers spent almost seven billion dollars more for goods and services in 1944 than in 1943.

Paper making began in England in 1492, but died out until reintroduced almost 100 years later.

The British government forbade the Hudson's Bay company to give liquor to the Indians.

Small Game

The big day of the year for the Upper Peninsula shotgun fans is Monday, October 1. It is the opening of the small game season when ruffed grouse (Partridge) prairie chicken, sharp-tailed grouse, rabbits (cottontail and snowshoe) become legal quarry. This year it is also the opening of the bow and arrow season on deer, a season that runs for 36 days until November 5.

Grouse, particularly the ruffed grouse, take the prime attention of the gunners this day although in numbers killed during the season and in time devoted to their chase the bunnies far outstrip the feathered game. It is a close parallel to the fishing season, when the opening of trout season is the big day but the bulk of the sport for most anglers is furnished by other species.

This year the outlook for birds is definitely unpromising. Birds are scarce and as usual hunters will find the cover heavy. As the season wears on more frosts and fall rains will kill and beat down the vegetation to provide better hunting conditions. But bird numbers will not increase.

Game men who have followed the ups and downs of the grouse have expressed the belief that last year was the bottom of their cycle. However, their numbers have not noticeably increased, probably because of an unfavorably wet nesting season. In fact, there has developed considerable sentiment among some sportsmen for a closed season in 1946.

The shell shortage continues to dampen the spirits of the scattergun clan, especially those who like lighter guns for their field sport. More hunters are looking for shells this fall and precious few of them have any left from last year to start out on.

Opening time for shooting will be 6 a. m. Central Standard time (Escanaba time) each day of the open season.

The bird season is 20 days long, closing on October 20. The limits on ruffed grouse are 5 per day, 10 in possession and 25 for the season. On prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse there is a combined limit of 5 in one day, 10 in possession and 25 for the season.

The rabbit limits are 5 per day, 10 in possession and 50 for the season.

Bring On Storms!

The season's first touch of snow and a drop in temperature has put new heart in the duck hunters for they see in them a promise of more migrating ducks from the north. All they want now is more of the same with enough wind thrown in to make the off-shore open water uninviting to the ducks.

The duck hunter's day gets another cut next week and is shortened by 16 minutes come Thursday, October 4. By then the time shifts will have been made and shooting will be from 5:23 a. m. to 5:29 p. m.

Souvenir Guns

Many American soldiers returning from European theater of war have been bringing with them souvenirs, just as they did in World War I. Many of these mementoes are pistols of foreign make, but it is doubtful that they will have much foreign ammunition to fit those handguns.

However, while the European system of designing calibers differs somewhat from that used by American manufacturers there are a number of cartridges which are interchangeable in pistols made in America and those made in Europe, according to ammunition experts. A word of caution is advisable because the better makes of European guns will handle American ammunition well, some manufacturers on that side of the water, too, used shoddy materials and the result is little less than a booby trap.

Here are quoted a few of the European calibers and the American cartridges which will fit:

European Caliber	American Cartridge
6.35mm	25 Automatic Pistol
6.65mm Browning	.32 Automatic Pistol
9mm Browning	.38 Colt. Auto. Pistol
9mm (short) Browning	.380 Colt Auto. Pistol
9mm Luger	9mm Luger Auto. Pistol
7.65 Parabellum	.30 Luger Auto. Pistol
7.63 Mauser	.30 Mauser Auto. Pistol

Upper Peninsula Sportsmen To Meet

Negaunee—The 1945 conference of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's association will be held Sunday, Oct. 21, in Iron Mountain it was announced here today by Peter Trudell, Jr., association president.

Details of the program will be revealed later.

All affiliated clubs received announcement that a convention would be held and have been asked to prepare resolutions they want placed before the association meeting.

The association sessions in the past have attracted representative gatherings of sportsmen from all parts of the peninsula. With changes in legislation and with anticipated greater demand for sports facilities with the return of men from the armed forces, the association, Trudell believes, can perform a great service to sportsmen and conservationists.

Modern masks are made of papier mache over a base of modeling wax or plaster of Paris.

Lower Priced Cars Will Not Be Out Until 1947

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(AP) Automotive Editor

Detroit (AP)—"Light weight, lower priced, more ecenomical" automobiles planned by Ford and General Motors probably will not be available until 1947 at the earliest.

Pricing complications regarding the initial 1946 models now in various stages of production in all factories, have the manufacturers still somewhat confused. They have not, however, altered plans to develop wholly new, lower priced units for a knock-down and drag-out competitive battle.

At the moment the need of Ford and General Motors, along with all other car makers is a huge volume of conventional type vehicles as quickly as possible. Neither company has yet produced sufficient 1946 models to even sample dealer organizations.

Short cut to heavy volume, of course, is the assembly of vehicles whose basic design differs but little from the cars that were in production when war halted all output in 1942.

Most producers, limiting initial production to only a few of their conventional models, will add others during the 1946 model year.

No Strike Effects Yet

Up to today the strikes of the last fortnight have interfered only slightly with new car production. Even in the case of the Ford Motor Co. whose production lines have been down for two weeks because of strikes among supplier plants, the work of preparing for greater volume has gone forward with little interruption.

Similarly, General Motors and Chrysler with little actual labor trouble in their own plants, have been able to push the work of preparing for high volume output at an early date.

Nothing has happened yet, say industry heads, to cause them to revise their estimates that half a million new passenger cars can be made in the remaining months of 1945. They add, at the same time, that once plant reconversion has been completed production must get under way quickly if production schedules are to be maintained.

The Dodge division probably will be the first of the Chrysler companies to bring out 1946 models. Pontiac division of General Motors announced its new six and eight cylinder cars today. Heavy bumpers and a redesigned radiator grille are among the design changes. Details of the 1946 Buick probably will be disclosed next week.

Gossip About Ford

Gossip in industry circles has credited Ford with considerable experimental work on a five-cylinder engine for his version of the lighter weight, lower priced automobile. Nevertheless, usually well-informed industry observers believe both the Ford and General Motors cars in this field will be powered with four-cylinder engines.

Chrysler's plans to meet this competitive threat have not been disclosed. Trade circles take it for granted, though, that not only Chrysler but some of the so-called "Independents" will get into the field if a market develops for a lighter weight vehicle that can be sold at a lower price than the current conventional types.

Said one industry expert this week: "Not one or two companies will have a monopoly in the field if a huge market develops for any new type of automobile, whether it be a lighter, lower priced vehicle or one of the 'Dream Cars' we've heard so much about."

Munising News

Over 900 Persons Attend X-Ray Clinic

Munising, Sept. 29—The annual X-ray clinic sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health was very successful this year, with 967 chest X-rays taken in Alger county in the past week.

Anyone who was unable to attend the mobile clinic is invited to attend the Michigan Tuberculosis Association X-ray clinic, which will be held Thursday morning, Oct. 4, at the Mather high school. This X-ray takes the large chest pictures and the cost is two dollars for each X-ray. Arnold Linden operates this unit and it is sponsored by the Christmas Seal sale.

Munising Clocks Go Back Tonight

Munising, Sept. 29—The city of Munising will revert back to Central Standard Time tonight, Sept. 30, at 12 o'clock. Clocks will be set back one hour in accordance with the city ordinance voted on in 1940, making Central Time legal from the last Sunday in September until the first Sunday in May.

New Postal Notes Available Monday

Munising, Sept. 29—On Oct. 1, postal notes will go on sale at the Munising postoffice, it was announced by Henry E. Genry, postmaster. The postal notes are designed as a safe, economical and convenient method of sending money through the mail. They cover the one cent to ten dollar field at a uniform cost of five cents. They may be safe-guarded by writing in the name of the payee at once, and retaining the receipt. Money orders will still be available, but the new postal notes offer the advantages of lower cost and the elimination of application.

TWO GIRLS ARE LOST IN WOODS

Spend Rainy Night In Deep Forest North Of City

Thelma Landers, 16, daughter of Mrs. Roy Landers, and Lillie Miller, 12, daughter of Mrs. Addie Gould, who live along the river road about 18 miles northeast of Manistique, are recovering at their homes from the harrowing experience of being lost in the woods.

It was their experience to have spent nearly twenty-four hours lost in dense timber growth, lightly clad while rain fell in a constant drizzle which eventually turned to snow.

The girls had gone to the Ashley Clark home Thursday afternoon for a visit. Setting out for home they decided to take a shortcut and in doing this they became confused and finally lost their bearings altogether.

Search began in the morning with members of the state police, the conservation office and neighbors of the girls taking part in the hunt. It was not until about 5 o'clock Friday evening, when George Cashmere, who was hunting along the Manistique river, heard the girls call for help and guided them to safety.

The girls faces and hands were bruised and swollen from pressing their way through brush and they were thoroughly chilled as they wore only light clothing. Their condition, however, is not regarded as serious.

WILL CONDUCT X-RAY CLINIC

Michigan TB Association To Sponsor Tests

A tuberculosis chest X-ray clinic will be held at the court house in Manistique on Wednesday from 9 a. m. until noon under the sponsorship of the Michigan Tuberculosis association in cooperation with the Alger-Schoolcraft Health Department, it was announced yesterday by the Health Department.

Arnold J. Linden, technician, will be in charge of the portable X-ray equipment which will be used here. Mr. Linden has been conducting these clinics twice annually for the past several years. A large type film is used and the X-rays are read by a tuberculosis specialist.

All persons who have been in contact with a case of tuberculosis, who have had positive reactions to tuberculin tests, who have symptoms of tuberculosis or persons who need a recheck, are invited to attend this clinic. This will also be an opportunity for persons handling food, milk and drink in the local restaurants and taverns to have a chest X-ray.

For further information telephone 509 or call at the offices of the health department in the court house.

Deer Poachers Pay Heavy Fines

Two brothers, Kenneth McCahan and Eckley McCahan, both of Cooks, were arrested Wednesday noon by conservation officers in the vicinity of Curtis. Officers came upon them shortly after they had killed a fork horned buck. According to the officers' report the hunters tried to get away but were apprehended after a short chase. Arraigned before Justice Therrian in St. Ignace, each admitted his guilt and each paid fine and costs amounting to $56.75.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

The other day we received a request that rather touched us. A certain woman in the city called us up and asked us if we had a few copies of the Escanaba Daily Press to spare. "It isn't for myself," she said. "There's a Manistique boy out on one of those islands in the South Pacific and he said he'd give anything for the privilege of reading a few of your papers. They don't have to be recent issues. He hasn't seen a home paper in months."

Lowell

Now there is nothing new nor unusual about this young man's request. Next to letters from home the home town newspaper has done more to keep the American soldier contented, or at least reconciled with his lot, than any other agency. And in many instances it did yeoman duty for many a loved one who found it hard to express himself or herself in writing.

So the request of the Manistique woman for these copies was a very natural one, and we complied with such copies, picked at random, as our store of extras could spare. But for some reason that defies explanation, the wish of this youngster out in the South Pacific —whose name we haven't yet learned—hit us right where we live.

Maybe we are wrong, but we firmly believe that those kids out there on those humid, battle-scarred islands are having a far lousier time right now than they had when the war was on. Before the Japs capitulated there was at least something doing—something to keep these boys on the alert and keyed up to responsibilities of an urgent sort. But now—if any reader of this column can think of anything more dismal, more disheartening and more apt to give an impressionable young man an off-colored slant on life than a hitch on one of those sweaty, rain soaked tropical islands, we are curious to know what it might be.

That's why we are thinking about that boy over there—more concerned about him today than we were when the danger of deadly modern warfare was his every day lot. This waiting, waiting, waiting—wondering when the next move will be and where it will take him—and all the time, in the back of his mind, is the query that never ceases to nag "When will we get to go home."

That is why we know that those copies of the Daily Press—some of them months old—are going to be a veritable blessing from Heaven. We know he will be mulling them over and over again—long after the news they contain has become old stuff. He will note familiar names, pictures, certain changes in the scene, he will note the return of this or that friend, schoolmate or training camp buddy. In other words, he will be home for the moment.

We didn't start writing this week's column with any intention of sounding an appeal for the current war fund drive, although we shall be very happy if it might spur some people on to greater interest in the local effort. But we do feel deeply for those boys who are marking time in some dreary army outpost thousands of miles from nowhere.

It wouldn't be exactly fair to say that the American people are ungrateful. On the contrary, we Americans think the world of our men in the service. All of us are thrilled to no end at the privilege of welcoming them home. But we are just a bit doubtful about the concern of the American people over the boys who are still in the service. Sure we'll contribute generously to the USO in order that they may have a good time and enjoy a few luxuries and comforts that would otherwise be denied them. But the war is over, and say what one will to the contrary, it makes a difference.

There haven't been any accounts in the papers of late of famous movie stars, radio entertainers or other headline grabbers making "morale building" trips among the boys overseas. They aren't. They merely wanted to be a part of the "big show." Now that the show is over they are more interested in big contracts. They aren't missed a bit. There is plenty of good entertainment available and it is being provided through your contributions to the War Fund drive. So give cheerfully.

Keep in mind what Clarence J. Cowman, head of the Schoolcraft County War Fund drive says: "There are still a lot of service flags in the windows of American homes."

EASY VICTORY FOR ESCANABA

Second Stringers Play Most Of Second Half

The Eskymos breezed to an easy 34 to 0 victory over a valiant but hopelessly outclassed Norway high school football team at the Escanaba athletic field yesterday afternoon.

In addition to the five touchdowns racked up by the Escanaba team against the Vikings, another was squelched by a penalty and still another was lost a foot from the goal. Despite all this, the entire third quarter and half of the last quarter was played by the second stringers and the full varsity string never got into the last half as a unit at all.

The Eskymos got their first touchdown the hard way, following a sustained 70 yard march after the opening kickoff. With Ross, Wickholm and Peterson punching the line and skirting the ends for consistent gains, they moved to the three yard line from where Wickholm scored on first down. Peterson split the uprights for the extra point.

Long Run Nullified

The second touchdown march was launched from the Norway 47 yard line. Wickholm picked up eight yards on two running plays and then Peterson passed to Ross for a 16 yard gain and a first down on the 23 yard stripe, as the first quarter ended.

On the first play of the second quarter, Ross circled his own left end behind nice blocking and outraced the Norway secondary defense to the goal line. Peterson added the extra point by placement.

The longest run of the game, which came up several plays later, was nullified by a penalty. Jug Peterson picked an opening off tackle and with his lanky legs chewing yardage in great hunks, sprinted 62 yards to the goal, only to have the whole thing called off by a penalty.

The Eskymos chalked up their third touchdown just before time ran out in the second period. Starting from their own 42 yard marker, Escanaba gained 16 yards on a dash by McDonald, reserve fullback, Schils and Wickholm collaborated to advance to the Norway 28 and then Peterson passed to Finn for a first down on the 16 yard line. A pass to Dufour added nine more and then Wickholm swallowed the last seven yards in two determined line smashes, the touchdown coming with five seconds of time remaining. Peterson converted once more via placement.

The entire second string was in the Escanaba lineup at the start of the second half and not a regular saw action during the entire period. The second stringers, however, actually outpowered the Vikings with McDonald bulling through the line for consistent gains. They drove all the way from the Norway 48 to the one foot line before yielding the ball to Norway on downs.

Norway's sole scoring threat came in the third period following an intercepted pass. Norway made a first down to the 31 yard line and a one yard loss and three incomplete passes fizzled that threat.

Midway in the third period, Coach Ruwitch returned several of his first stringers to the game and Peterson passed to Dufour who sprinted down the sidelines for 39 yards before he stepped out of bounds on the one yard line. McDonald scored on the first play and Peterson again kicked the extra point.

The last touchdown resulted from an intercepted pass by Finnegan who streaked to the sidelines behind fast forming interference and raced to the goal. Peterson was out of the game at the time and McDonald attempted to add the extra point by a line smash that failed.

Cardinals Defeat Cincinnati Twice

Cincinnati, Sept. 29 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals went down winning today.

They won a pair of ball games from the Cincinnati Reds and lost the National league pennant to the Chicago Cubs.

Fighting with what the most optimistic called a slim mathematical chance, the Cards took the opener 5-3 with rookie Ken Burkhardt spacing 10 hits. They won the nightcap 5-2 as Manager Billy Southworth tried out a number of his green hands.

Burma became a British crown colony and was given a constitution of her own in 1937. It had been part of India.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Anyone who knows the difference between a fielder's choice and a chest protector realizes that major league baseball is big business, but what the general public does not know is that a big league ball club looks to its concessions business for its profit. The Chicago Cubs, for instance, will gross half as much in the 1945 season for the sale of hot dogs, beer, etc., as the gross gate receipts. It is this business that means the difference between profit and loss for the Cubs. Without the concessions, the Cubs could not operate at a profit. Gate receipts for the 1945 season will total roughly $1,300,000 and the gross take on concessions is another $650,000.

• • •

Wrigley Field's 1945 sales of hot dogs for 77 home games and the five Chicago Bears football games to be played there will exceed 1,000,000 and the sale of other refreshments include the following: 700,000 bottles of beer 900,000 soft drinks, 500,000 cups of ice cream, 300,000 bags of peanuts and more than a million other items such as coffee, popcorn and scorecards. Wrigley Field runs its own concessions, buying the food and drink directly from the producers, some of the other clubs in the league sell the concession rights.

• • •

The ups and downs of the Cubs over the years under the Wrigley management are reflected in the fluctation of its stock quotations. Wrigley and his family own 57 per cent of the 100,000 shares of stock. The stock sold at an all time low of $48 in 1943, as compared to $540 in the lush days of 1929. The stock sold at about $105 at the beginning of this year but the current quotation is $185 bid, $195 asked. The club has not paid a dividend since 1937, but in the past three years the Chicago Nationals wiped out a $400,000 debt. It is probable that a dividend will be declared this year, since gross receipts are up 56 per cent from last year. The club pays $1,000 a week just to keep the grounds clean.

• • •

Assuming the Tigers will win the 1945 American league pennant which may even be reality before these words appear in print, the Detroit club will owe much of their success to an unheralded relief pitcher, George Caster, who incidentally, drew a World Series check last year as a member of the St. Louis Browns. Caster has starred in the fireman role for the Tigers down the home stretch and had scored five consecutive victories as a relief pitcher before he was charged with a defeat in the Tigers' last game at Washington. He had appeared in 18 games and protected threatened leads on many occasions. The Tigers acquired him on waivers August 11.

• • •

Hit and Miss—More than 5,500 baseball players from the major and minor leagues served in the U. S. forces, which offers quite a reemployment problem in itself.. Champion nighthawks of the majors are the St. Louis Cards, who won 36 night games while losing 15 for a .718 percentage.... Remember Schoolboy Rowe?.... His Sub Base Dolphins captured the championship of the 14th Naval District League in Hawaii Sept. 19, defeating the Aiea Naval Barracks, 2-0.

TIGERS STILL NEED VICTORY

Doubleheader Today As Saturday Game Is Rained Out

BY GAYLE TALBOT

St. Louis, Sept. 29 (AP)—A cold, beating rain forced postponement of today's crucial game between the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns and carried the American league flag race right down to a final climactic doubleheader tomorrow, with the Tigers still needing a single victory to enter the world series against the Chicago Cubs.

If the skies clear the first game will begin at 12:30 p. m. (CST) in order to assure the Tigers of catching a 6:30 train back to Detroit and a possible play-off engagement with the Washington Senators there on Monday. Two defeats by the Browns would throw the Bengals into a tie with the Nats and deprive them of clear possession of top place for the first time since early June.

Another such day of rain would present the title to the Tigers without a struggle. Army air forces said, however, that tomorrow promised to be fairly clear and cold, so there was a prospect the two games would be played. The Tigers claimed they would prefer to fight it out on the field, but they were not too aggressive about it.

Trucks Looks Fit

Manager Steve O'Neill said his starting pitchers would be Virgil Trucks, who signed his Tiger contract just today after returning from the navy, and Stubby Overmire, a lefthander who looked very good in his last appearance in a relief job four days ago. O'Neill was holding out his ace, Hal Newhouser, to throw at Washington in the event of a play-off. Some thought this represented cock-eyed strategy, but they didn't say so to O'Neill.

Trucks, who admits being in the best shape of his career, was rearing to pitch the clincher today, and he was disappointed when the rain kept coming down. He looks bronzed and tremendously fit. Catcher Paul Richards, who worked out with him yesterday at Sportsman's Park, was greatly impressed.

"Honest, you wouldn't believe me if I told you how great the guy looks," Richards demurred. "I don't know whether to believe it, myself. He's taken off about 20 pounds pitching out in the Pacific. His fast one, his curve and his control all are pretty wonderful."

SPARTANS BOW TO WOLVERINES

Michigan Scores 40 To 0 Victory Over Michigan State

BY FRANK KENNESSON

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29 (AP)—Piling up the widest margin in nearly 20 years of their ancient rivalry, the University of Michigan scored almost at will before a crowd of 35,200 fans here today to swamp Michigan State 40 to 0.

The Wolverines, beaten by Indiana a week ago, bounced back with a vengeance against the Spartans, driving 40 yards for a first period touchdown and adding two more in the second and fourth stanzas and another in the third.

Michigan, mixing frequent passes with its usual power attack, had the situation in control all afternoon, piling up a wide statistical edge on 19 first downs to the Spartans' five.

Freshman Fullback Dan Dworsky crashed through tackle from the one yard line for Michigan's first score, climaxing a 40 yard march in the opening nine minutes of play.

Halfback Wally Teninga passed 26 yards to Freshman End Don Hershberger for Michigan's second score on the first play of the second period and the Wolverines drove 77 yards to score again before the half ended, Halfback Bob Nussbaumer punching over from the three yard line.

Quarterback Joe Ponsetto booted two extra points and Michigan led 20-0 at the half.

The Wolverines held State without a first down in the second half, scoring again on Teninga's three yard plunge climaxing a 71 yard parade the first time they got the ball and piling up two more touchdowns in the final stanza to turn it into a rout.

Teninga ran eight yards after taking a lateral from Ponsetto to register his second touchdown and third string Halfback Wes Mueller intercepted a pass and ran 10 yards for the final score. Ponsetto converted twice more in the second half but George Chiames failed in a plunge for the point after the last touchdown.

Michigan, besides piling up 19 first downs to State's five gained 274 yards rushing to the Spartans' 37 and 128 yards on passes to MSC's 48.

Marquette Beaten By Ishpeming, 19-12

Ishpeming, Sept. 29—Previously unbeaten Marquette was caught in the surge of the rebound today as Ishpeming, trounced last week by Soo, 60-0, came back to grab a 19-12 decision from the Graveraets.

Handicapped last week by the loss of three key veterans, the Ishpeming team looked like an altogether different outfit today with their regular lineup intact.

The organ pipes that are visible are usually dummies because the real pipes, made in a variety of sizes and shapes are too unsightly to be seen by people in churches, theaters, etc.

Wisconsin Scores 40 to 13 Victory Over Marquette U

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29 (AP)—A hard charging Wisconsin eleven that ripped open wide holes for a pair of fleet backs, Jerry Thompson and Ben Bendrick, handed favored Marquette a 40 to 13 beating before 37,000 today.

Marquette gained an early 6 to 0 lead and looked good in getting it but after that was outplayed throughout by a Wisconsin eleven that was smooth and efficient in all of its tasks. The Badgers punctured the Marquette line and circled the ends on wide sweeps and reverses to run up 322 yards from scrimmage.

Bendrick, a freshman fullback from Wausau, Wis., was particularly impressive as he consistently picked holes opened by a strong forward wall for long gains. Thompson in wide sweeps around the ends and slashes off tackle was equally impressive. He also passed for two of Wisconsin's touchdowns.

Chicago Cubs Clinch National League Flag

BY SID FEDER

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Cubs are in.

The Chicago champs who took over the National league lead in July and held it all the way against the surge of the St. Louis Cardinals, nailed the pennant to their flagpole today for the first time since 1938.

The $100,000 "pennant insurance" they bought from the New York Yankees in mid season — Hank Borowy—paid off in the clincher with an eight-hit 4 to 3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first half of a double header that put the flag on ice, giving the Cubs their 16th league crown since 1876 for an all-time high. This one broke a tie at 15 apiece that they'd been in with the New York Giants since 1938.

Just for good measure, the Cubs also took the darkness-shortened second game, 5-0, in seven innings with Hy Vandenberg and Lon Warneke dividing the pitching chores and Catcher Paul Gillespie whacking a two-run homer.

It marked, too, the third Cub championship conquest under the leadership of Jolly Cholly Grimm.

Come From Behind

Back in 1932, Grimm took over in mid-season and piloted the windy city wallopers to a pennant, then was whipped in the World Series by the Yanks. Three years later, he put them on top again, only to lose a six-game World Series to Detroit, the outfit that probably will be the party of the second part when the fall frolics open next Wednesday. All the Tigers have to do to get their ticket of admission is split tomorrow's double-header with the Browns in St. Louis.

Borowy and his mates had to come from behind in the seventh and ninth innings to reach the payoff window today, and then Hank had to call for the bullpen fire department of Lefty Bob Chipman and Beanpole Paul Erickson to put out a Buc blaze that threatened to burn up the pennant party at the last minute.

But when Erickson pushed a wide-breaking curve past Pinch Hitter Tom O'Brien, with Pirates on second and third and two away in the ninth, it was all over. And Borowy's game was saved for his 11th win against two defeats since the Cubs wrote out that big check for him in July—his 21st triumph in his combined Cub-Yank year.

ILLINI LOSES TO NOTRE DAME

Irish Score 7-0 Victory With 76 Yard Scoring Dash

BY JERRY LISKA

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 29 (AP)—Phil Collela, a navy veteran of South Pacific action, streaked 76 yards for a touchdown on the game's first running play to usher in Notre Dame's football season with a 7-0 triumph over Illinois today.

It had a new coach and a squad of unknown ability, but never did a Notre Dame team live up to its Fighting Irish label as did Hugh Devore's green-shirted scrappers, who staged two epic goal line stands in the closing period before a crowd of 45,000.

The Illini who last week belted Pittsburgh, 23-6, slammed an explosive but fumble-plagued offensive at the Irish only to see scoring threats smothered on Notre Dame's one-yard and three-yard stripes.

Notre Dame had its opening day pattern cut out for it after Collela, a 20-year old from Rochester, Pa., skirted Illinois' left end, sharply reversed his field and outran the Illini secondary 76 yards to a touchdown on the first play.

Reserve Fullback Stan Krivak drop-kicked the point and that was the only scoring.

After that, the bruising, alert Irish defense simply wore down the slippery-fingered Illinois attack that was seriously weakened when "Scat-Back" Eddie Bray was injured in the first period.

But with due credit to Bray, the Irish were impregnable inside their five-yard line when reserve Illini backs threatened to salvage the first Illinois victory over Notre Dame in nine meetings.

At the outset of the fourth quarter, Illinois could make only five yards in four plays and was stopped on the Irish three. A few minutes later the Illini again had first down on the Irish eight but on the fourth down were smothered on the one-yard line.

The Illini outscored Notre Dame, 13 to 6, in first downs but six of their seven fumbles were recovered by the Irish. A third Illini threat at the close of the first half was stopped by the clock with Illinois on Notre Dame's five-yard stripe.

The Irish also lost the ball on fumbles six times, but only Substitute Bill Gompers' bobble on the Notre Dame 14 in the last period caused any danger. And here the Illini elected to pass, flipping three incompletions and a fourth down toss that was intercepted.

SOO DEFEATED AT MENOMINEE

Maroons Score Upset In 19-15 Victory Over Lock City Team

Menominee, Sept. 29 — After spotting the Soo Blue Devils a safety and two points on the opening kickoff, a fighting Menomnee high school football team scored a major upset here today in defeating the Lock City eleven, 19 to 15.

Menominee's first touchdown was scored on a 42 yard dash by McCormick and the second touchdown, also scored in the first period, resulted from a 40 yard march, with Gregory scoring from the four yard line. One of the try for points was successful and the quarter score was 13-2.

The Blue Devils roared back in the second period with a 78 yard march, climaxed by a touchdown plunge by Splan.

Doyle scored Menominee's final touchdown with a 50 yard run.

In the fourth period the Blue Devils staged another long march of 53 yards, with Splan scoring the touchdown, but it was too late and the game ended with the Maroons on top, 19-15.

Soo made 15 first downs to 10 for Menominee.

Menominee will play at Escanaba next Saturday.

New South Wales was the first colony to be established in Australia.

NEGAUNEE WINS FROM MUNISING

Miners Take 41-0 Margin Over Algers, Jennings Stars Again

Munising, Sept. 29—Negaunee's vaunted Miners pummelled Munising, 41 to 0, in a high school football game here this afternoon, with Jennings sparking the Negaunee attack all of the way.

Negaunee's first touchdown was scored by Jennings from the four yard line and Rivers plunged for the extra point. The second touchtown was scored on a 20 yard pass to Roberts. Jennings kicked the extra point. Jennings set up another touchdown in the first period with a brilliant 60 yard run to the 10 yard line, with Rivers scoring from there. Jennings again kicked goal.

A 30 yard pass to Ellis accounted for a fourth touchdown, scored in the second period, and Jennings converted to make the score 28-0.

In the third period, Jennings was trapped 10 yards behind the line following a pass from center, but shook off his tacklers and sprinted 22 yards to the goal. The try for point failed.

The final touchdown was scored by Rivers on a reverse play from the eight yard line, following a series of passes. Jennings kicked the goal.

Munising threatened late in the game, with Negaune using substitutes freely, but the Algers failed to score. Once they lost the ball on the eight yard ine and on the final play of the game, Strand dropped a pass in the end zone.

Officials were Puckelwartz, Williams and Baldwin, Escanaba.

BRAVES SOCK IT TO MANISTIQUE

Win Over Emeralds By Overwhelming Score

Manistique—Gladstone scored a 41 to 0 victory over the Manistique Emeralds in the first local game of the season.

It was a case of one team playing as a unit against eleven men, each determined to play the game his own way and the result was the hopelessly lopsided score.

Gladstone resorted to little else than straight football and its interference was so effective that only twice in the first half did the Braves have to resort to punting.

Three plays were all that was necessary to carry the ball over for the first touchdown, Haglund carrying the ball. Point after touchdown was also scored. Two other touchdowns were made in the first period. The quarter ending 20 to 0.

An overshot pass from center to quarterback by Manistique added two extra points near the beginning of the second quarter. One touchdown followed in quick order and the half ended 29 to 0.

The second half was played by the second string players of both teams; and the playing became less onesided and more interesting from a spectator's viewpoint.

Gladstone scored two touchdowns the first period while none were made in the final.

During the game Manistique uncorked a few passes with Schuster passing and Burnis receiving, but the team never was able to take advantage of the gains.

Gladstone's effectiveness in interference was an outstanding feature of the game. The work of Engstrom and Haglund was particularly effective.

Following is the lineup:

Gladstone		Manistique
Gillis	LE	F. Rydquist
Jugo	LT	J. Rozich
Quarnstrom	LG	H. Tennyson
Erickson	C	G. Dewey
Rose	RG	R. Peterson
Timler	RT	D. Weber
Thivierge	RE	W. Pistulka
Engstrom	LH	P. Shaw
LeGault	RH	R. Burnis
LaVelle	QB	J. Creighton
Haglund	FB	M. Cournaya

Officials: Referee—Treado, Negaunee; umpire—Johnson, Marquette; head linesman—Goldsworthy, Negaunee.

TURN CLOCKS BACK 1 HOUR

Central Standard Time Is Now Effective In Escanaba

Residents of Escanaba who did not turn their clocks back one hour last night are doing so this morning to conform to the change in time from Central War Time to Central Standard Time, which became effective here at 2 a. m. today.

The Escanaba city council in formal session decided to revert to Central Standard Time because that was the time that prevailed in Escanaba prior to the war. During the summer months, however, the clocks will be advanced one hour on "daylight saving time". The council's decision follows the wishes of the majority of Escanaba residents as expressed in an advisory vote taken in 1940.

In setting the clocks back one hour Escanaba's time will be the same as that on which the railroads will operate.

While there appeared to be no controversy in the townships on the time question, C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, said the opening and closing of schools would follow the time prevailing in the localities in which they are located. At Rapid River Supt. Paul Bowers said the schools will operate on Central Standard Time.

Communities in the Upper Peninsula apparently are adopting the following times: Sault Ste. Marie, St. Ignace, Newberry and Manistique—Eastern Standard Time; Marquette, Negaunee, Ishpeming, Munising, Iron Mountain, Menominee, Ironwood—Central Standard Time; Houghton, Hancock, Calumet and other Copper Country communities — Eastern Standard Time.

Greyhound bus lines yesterday announced the following revised schedule effective tomorrow, Central Standard Time:

Leave Escanaba 9:45 a. m. for Menominee and Iron Mountain and points south and west.

Leave Escanaba 1:05 p. m. for Norway and Iron Mountain and points west.

Leave Escanaba 11:50 a. m. for Green Bay, Milwaukee and points south and west.

Leave Escanaba 11:15 a. m. for Marquette, Ishpeming and the Copper Country and for Manistique, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie and Lower Michigan.

Leave Escanaba 11:40 p. m. for Marquette and the Copper Country, St. Ignace and Lower Michigan.

Lt. Col. Fawcett Receives Discharge

Lt. Col. John H. Fawcett, 710 Lake Shore Drive, has been honorably discharged from the U. S. Air Forces after three years service and has returned to his home here.

Lt. Col. Fawcett, entered service as a second lieutenant. Following an officers training course at Miami Beach, he was transferred to Brookley Field, Mobile, Ala., and later to Drane Field, Lakeland, Fla., before going to North Africa with the 324th Service Group, which landed at Oran, Jan., 1943. After 11 months in Africa, Fawcett moved to Italy, where he served 18 months. He recently returned to the United States on command of 1100 air force personnel and was discharged at Camp McCoy, Wis.

While executive officer of the 324th Service Group in Italy, Lt. Col. Fawcett was awarded the bronze star medal by Brig. Gen. James A. Mollison for exceptionally meritorious service in handling the largest wing of heavy bombers in the ETO.

Ministerial Ass'n To Meet Tuesday

The Delta County Ministerial Association will meet Tuesday, Oct. 2, at 10 a. m. at the Evangelical Covenant church, Escanaba. Luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock noon by the ladies of the church. Ministers and their wives are invited.
